Cotton Textile Union Votes To Strike Within Month

M'MAHON ADMITS SHORTAGE OF CASH TO FINANCE MOVE

All But 10 of 571 Delegates To Union Convention Favor Walkout Expected To Affect 500,000 Workers.

ACTION IS URGED BY NORMAN THOMAS

Googe Charges Southern Operators Are Violating Bargaining Provision of Recovery Act.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A nation-wide strike in the cotton textile industry on or before September 1 was voted today at the annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America.

The strike would affect 500,000 cotton textile workers, leaders said, particularly in the south and in New England. The union has a total membership of about 300,000.

The strike resolution, approved by all but 10 of the 571 delegates, empowers the incoming executive council of the union to call a strike in the cotton textile industry on or before September 1.

Meets Saturday.
The council, which has yet to be elected, will meet Saturday at the close of the convention, but announcement has already been made that the date of the strike will be kept secret and employers given no more than 12 hours' notice.

The vote on the strike was taken after hours of warm argument, most of it favoring a strike, and amid intense excitement. It was taken, too, after Thomas E. McMahon, president of the union, had admitted in answer to a question that the organization had no money to finance local unions through the strike.

Thomas Speaks.
Norman Thomas, socialist leader, was one of those who urged the textile workers to "fight for justice." McMahon said the present executive council of the union had discussed the strike proposal for three days before voting it on the convention.

"We are not desirous of creating chaos," he asserted. "I would hate to give my consent to anything like that unless it was absolutely convinced it was the only way out. There is no other way."

"We will say to the manufacturers: Now that we know the power we possess, we will wield it, but we will wield it intelligently and reasonably. I urge immediate action upon the new council. We know what procrastination is. We have procrastinated possibly too long. The hour is here."

The ten delegates who stood out against the strike motion included several from Newberry, S. C., who argued that this was not the best time to walk out.

Georgian Dissents.
"The people from the southern states don't want a strike at the present time, and our treasury won't stand it," said a Newberry delegate. He was contradicted by a burly fellow from Georgia.

400 Tons of Silver Shipped to New York SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Four hundred tons of bar silver with an estimated worth of about $6,000,000—the largest transatlantic shipment of its kind ever made on one ship—left for New York today aboard the S. S. Washington.

More than 40 railroad cars were required to carry the shipment from London. A large police force guarded the loading of the 12,000 bars of metal.

LEGISLATIVE FOES FAIL IN EFFORTS TO BAR HUEY LONG

Administration Forces Attempt To Oust Press As "Spite" Program Is Speeded on Way.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 16.—(AP)—After a roiling session in the Louisiana house of representatives in which threats were hurled, fists were shaken and curses were yelled, the Huey Long majority tonight passed his program which the minority, or "spite" legislation, as it was called, would prevent Long from leaving the state.

The bills, which Long said were intended to insure "honest elections" and the like, were shot through by heavy majorities in spite of almost breathless arguments ranged against them by the determined minority group.

The most heated scene of the day was a near riot staged in front of the speaker's stand over a motion by Representative George M. Lester, of West Feliciana parish, to invoke the anti-bribery law completely to exclude "Long and his henchmen" from the chamber, because Long had been shouting directions to his leaders from behind the rail where he was forced from the floor yesterday by the anti-group.

Members of the clashing factions ran down front, waving arms, shaking fists and shouting. "Damn you, I'm not a henchman," and "You can't say that about me," were yelled in the stampede.

One of the principal bills passed in the house would create a state police force which Long's opposition said would authorize state police power in the cities and supercede the local police. It was voted, 57 to 36.

As soon as the house finished with Continued in Page 7, Column 5.

Harvey Couch Resigns RFC Executive Post

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Harvey Couch, of Arkansas, today submitted his resignation as a member of the reconstruction corporation, effective September 1, and it was accepted.

Couch, a public utilities and railroad man, was one of the original appointees of the big relief agency. He was named by President Hoover in January, 1932, and confirmed shortly afterward by the senate after a bitter attack by then Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, who later became a member of the corporation himself. Blaine died last April.

Couch will return to his private business in the southwest.

STATE ROAD BOARD AWARDS $334,019 U.S. AID CONTRACTS

Nine Highway and Bridge Contracts on Important Roads in Georgia Closed Thursday.

The state highway board Thursday awarded nine federal-aid highway and bridge contracts for $334,019.

The projects include one calling for the widening and paving of the College Park-Rocky Mountain stretch of the Atlanta to Newnan highway and one calling for the grading of the Georgia section of the Tri-States road which runs through the northeastern section of Rabun county.

Two state projects which were on the list for letting already have been started by the highway department which will do the jobs itself. They are for the paving of the Jackson-Jenkinsburg road in Butts county and the paving of the Covington-Porterdale road in Newton county.

A call for bids also had been issued for the repaving of the Atlanta-Marietta road, but this call was rescinded last week when the highway board decided to wait until a new stretch of the road, eliminating two underpasses, is ready and pave the entire road under one program.

The projects on which contracts were awarded Thursday and the successful bidders follow:

Paving 6.599 miles on the Kingsland-St. Mary's road, in Camden county, Broadbent Construction Company, Ocala, Fla., $62,757.82.

Paving 0.697 miles on the Cedar-Trail-Rome road in Floyd county, Ledbetter Johnson, contractors, Rome, Ga., $28,902.51.

Grading 4.292 miles on the Newnan-Atlanta road in Fulton and Clayton counties, Sam E. Finley and E. A. Hudsons Sons, of Atlanta, $72,671.57.

Constructing a bridge over the Little Tied creek on the Cairo-Pelham road in Grady county, Beckham-Lawton Construction Company, Perry, Ga., $8,709.40.

Constructing bridge and approaches over the Southern Railway two miles south of Gainesville on the Atlanta-Gainesville road in Hall county, Albert Lyons, of Rogersville, Tenn., $28,131.01.

Grading 9.0275 miles on the tri-state road from the South Carolina line to the North Carolina line in Rabun county, M. R. Woodall Company, Incorporated, Atlanta, $72,323.25.

Grading 2.178 miles on the Conyers-Milledge road in Rockdale county, E. A. Hudsons Sons, Bolton, Ga., $23,309.31.

Paving 0.507 miles on the Lunnkin-Cusseta road in Stewart county, Hardaway Contracting Company, Columbus, Ga., $12,023.22.

Bridges and culverts on the Thomasville-Albany road in Thomas and Mitchell counties, W. P. Scott, Thomasville, Ga., $29,153.55.

Banker Takes Life In New York Hotel

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Veron P. Baker, 45, second vice president of the Chase National bank, committed suicide today by shooting himself in his room at a midtown hotel. The body was discovered by a maid.

Baker, who lived at New Canaan, Conn., telephoned a stepson, Edgar R. Baker, of Englewood, N. J., during the morning and asked him to come to the hotel immediately.

Searchers at the hotel soon after the body was found and told detectives about the telephone message, adding he had been unable to come earlier.

The suicide left a note addressed to the stepson.

Labatt Reported Freed; Denial Made By Police

Kidnaped Canadian Brewer Said to Have Appeared in Toronto Hotel But Authorities Flatly Spike Rumors.

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—(Friday)—Widely-circulated reports that John S. Labatt, kidnaped Canadian brewer, had unexpectedly showed up at the Royal York hotel early this morning were flatly denied by hotel authorities and police officials.

The night manager of the hotel, Hugh, who mysteriously departed early yesterday, presumably to establish contact with the kidnappers and pay $150,000 for his brother's release, had returned to the hotel around 1 a. m.

A telephone call to the room was answered by Inspector Charles Gurnett, of the Ontario police, who denied that Hugh Labatt had returned.

"I don't know where he is," Gurnett said. "No, I haven't seen him at all. He is not here."

Gurnett said further that there were no new developments in the disappearance of the 55-year-old London, Ont., brewer, so far as he knew.

Labatt, a high Toronto police officer, however, said John Labatt was believed to be held by his abductors at a farmhouse in western Ontario.

Although he did not reveal the source of his information, the officer said the Labatt family had made two contacts with the kidnappers through Hugh Labatt, a brother, while he was in Toronto.

The whole investigation took a new turn late today when it was learned that Hugh Labatt had been absent from the hotel room where he had been conducting telephone negotiations, presumably with the kidnappers, on a secret mission since early this morning.

Further revelations disclosed the discovery of eye-witnesses to the kidnaping of the wealthy 50-year-old brewer, near Sarnia, the family's summer home.

The Toronto officer said the farmhouse where the kidnappers were believed held was rented especially for the purpose by a group of gangsters, being taken over some time ago.

Indicating that the negotiations with the Labatt family had not been completed, the officer said the family was demanding concrete evidence from the kidnappers that they held John Labatt alive.

He said no action would be taken until the evidence is forthcoming.

The investigation near Sarnia disclosed several farmers and residents who said they had identified the automobile of John Labatt on the morning of the kidnaping.

One, Jack Burnley, who lives on a side road east of Cambricht, said he saw two black automobiles proceeding east along the Egremont road about 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

As they approached the Wilmont road, he said, another car came out of a side road and darted ahead of the other two. He positively identified one of the machines as Labatt's.

Others, including D. Jackson, station agent at Cambricht; Archie Dewar and Willard Anderson, farmers, said three or four men stepped from two automobiles on the Egremont road, and that one of them apparently was being pushed into a machine, which drove away.

Their story upset a theory Labatt had been kidnaped while driving on the Sarnia-London highway.

'BIG STICK' READY FOR PROFITEERS IN SALE OF FOOD

Data Indicate Supplies Are Ample and White House Will Brook No "Gouging."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Administration concern over the food situation was evidenced once again today by Secretary Wallace's reiteration that the government had a big stick ready for profiteers.

Statistics available bear out the contention that—despite drought damage—there will be enough food available. Most of the uneasiness in official circles revolves about the prospects of a price ascension which would pinch consumers until they howled.

The farm chiefs have known all along that their reduction programs would cause food prices to go up. They wanted a gradual rise and figured that increasing employment resulting from more farm purchasing power would pacify the average urban dweller.

The dry spell upset calculations and the consumer may have to meet sharply hoisted food costs without the benefits contemplated that might make the AAA very unpopular and have an effect upon the entire administration program.

Hope To Offset Damage.
Consistent with the emphasis on keeping food prices from unwarranted ascensions, the farm administration hopes, too, that relief and higher prices in the areas where crops are good will offset in large measure the drought devastation.

Wallace disclosed today that purchases of cattle and sheep in the drought area might reach the huge total of 15,000,000 head; instead of the 2,000,000 figured on when the dry spell was first seriously felt.

The president's warning against "profiteering" and destructive "speculation" in food and grain was echoed by the secretary of agriculture.

Steps Taken.
Wallace outlined at his weekly press conference steps which might be taken to back up the admonition. They were:

1. Study of price increases by commodities to determine to what extent they are justified.

2. Publication of the facts, if increases are unjustified, in similar fashion to the administration's attack on prices a year ago.

3. Use of "moral suasion" on code authorities of industries operating under codes and agreements. Wallace explicated the reference to this procedure as an excessive price curb.

4. Enforcement of provisions of the grain exchange code by the code authority of the grain industry, set by the government to check excessive speculation in grains.

The secretary said the administration must stand "poised" to meet the interests of both consumers and farmers.

Double Peril.
Consumers must be guarded against price increases and farmers must be protected against price slumps if ordinary weather results in "terrific overproduction" of food grains next year, he said.

Wallace said food supplies are sufficient for "the larger part of the usual American food requirements." He added that shifts in the diet of the average citizen may occur during the coming year due to costs of some foods.

About 10,000,000 of the live stock to be bought will be cattle and the remainder sheep and Angora goats. Most of them will be processed for relief distribution.

Wallace said the drought "has turned hundreds of millions of dollars more serious" than when congress appropriated the present $225,000,000 relief fund. He added, however, that he believed the present appropriation would be sufficient to carry out relief work.

He declined to estimate whether this fund, plus benefit payments made to farmers, would compensate for the losses in the drought sections.

Suspicious Memphians Shy at 90-Cent Dollars

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Advertising a picture dealing with treasure, Lionel Brashares was employed to go about Memphis streets selling good silver dollars for 90 cents each.

After two hours of real effort, he succeeded in selling 20 to a suspicious public. No women accepted the offer.

One man returned his purchase. "How come it has this 'E Pluribus Unum' on it?" he asked. Explanations availed nothing, and Brashares returned the 90 cents.

CATTLE EXCHANGE ARRANGED AS AID TO SOUTH'S STOCK

Vinson Expects Drouth Relief Animals Will Be Retained for Breeders, Native Cattle Butchered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Some of the 400,000 head of cattle bought by the government in drought stricken states and pastured in the south are expected to be exchanged for native well-conditioned cattle under an agreement reported today to have been worked out between the farm administration and the federal emergency relief administration.

Originally the government announced the cattle moved into the south for pasturage would be slaughtered and canned for distribution to those on relief rolls. Representative Vinson, of Georgia, said he had been advised the exchange plan today.

He had previously stated that such a plan would be of great benefit to southern farmers since the drought relief cattle were of better stock than the southern cattle.

Approximately 400,000 head of cattle were shipped into the south from the drought states in July.

Recommendations for preserving breeding cattle were made in preliminary reports of regional advisers and co-ordinators of the FERA and AAA at a conference here August 6.

SHIPPERS TO SAVE $750,000 PER YEAR

Rails' Announcement Follows Failure To Obtain Injunction Against Cuts in Federal Court.

Two of the largest railroads operating in the state, the Southern and the Seaboard, Thursday abandoned their court fight against the Georgia public service commission's 18 per cent freight rate reduction order but reserved the right to take their case before the interstate commerce commission.

Accepting the rate reduction and ordering it into effect on their lines, officials of the roads said they were changing the form of their contention that the rates should not go into effect and would reserve the right to take the case before the federal commission at any time.

Under the public service commission's orders the new rates go into effect at midnight Sunday, August 20. The railroads will follow that order, officials said.

It was understood that the 42 other railroads operating in the state would follow the action of the Southern and Seaboard, although official confirmation of this could not be obtained Thursday night.

Governor Talmadge Thursday night said that if the roads accepted the rate reduction order they could file their 1933 returns without fear of molestation and they would "have a fair deal from the government."

"It will help the people," Mr. Talmadge said, "and it will help the railroads. They will haul more freight."

Recently, when the utilities fought the orders of the public service commission, the controller-general announced their tax returns were not satisfactory and listed tax assessments above the amount on which they paid taxes last year.

Rail Sale Rift Stirs New Russo-Jap Crisis

TOKYO, Aug. 17.—(Friday)—(AP) The Japanese press today was publishing threats of military action against the soviet government on the results of another dangerous situation in north Manchuria.

With negotiations over disposition of the Chinese Eastern railroad deadlocked again after failure of the Russians to consider a final Japanese offer, Japanese-soviet relations have encountered another blustery crisis.

There have been several like since Japan in 1921 seized Manchuria and began attempts to relieve Russia of her Manchurian holdings and end Russian influence in the region.

The Chinese Eastern railway negotiation, constituted the most important phase of this program. The railway, formerly jointly owned by Russia and China, is sought by Japan in negotiations for its purchase which have already been drawn out more than a year, with no immediate prospect of a settlement.

General Lindley Camp Goes To Columbus To View Strike

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Charging intimidation and discharge of employees who joined the union, approximately 2,000 workers in the Eagle and Phenix Mills struck here today.

Adjutant General Lindley W. Camp, who is head of the national guard of Georgia, arrived in Columbus tonight to investigate the situation. General Camp said that his visit, although made at the request of Governor Talmadge, is "unofficial."

General Camp declared that as far as he learned it is "all quiet on the western front" in Columbus. He stated that under Georgia law it is required that the judge of superior court, the sheriff, and the mayor of the city make a joint request for intervention by the national guard before troops can be legally called out in a situation of this kind. The local officials referred to had made no request for such aid.

Several hundred of the 200 employees reporting for work, operated throughout the day as picket lines were formed about the plant by strikers but there were no disorders.

Strike leaders appealed to Governor Talmadge for aid in settling the dispute, and the governor immediately got in touch with labor leaders and J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association and

Girl Admits Slaying Father for Advances

GILROY, Cal., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Bernice Beauchamp, Pickrell, pretty, blonde and 19, sobbingly admitted to an inquest today that she killed her father, Robert Beauchamp, wealthy rancher, when he "made advances" to her.

Beauchamp died Tuesday night a short time after he was shot in the abdomen. A suicide theory tentatively had been held.

She said she lived with her mother, Mrs. Ida Beauchamp, who was separated from the rancher when the girl was 3 months old. She did not see her father until she was 15.

He asked her to come to the ranch Tuesday night, she related. When she arrived she saw he had been drinking.

"I never saw his face look that way before," she cried. "He made advances to me."

"I shot once into the wall to scare him. He got up from his chair, then in the kitchen and I shot him."

DIXIE URGED TO BACK 'NEW DEAL' CONGRESS

Farley Stresses Importance of Fall Election Upon Tennesseans.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The fall congressional election was described as "no ordinary election" tonight by Postmaster-General Farley because, he said, "it is involved the ability of the administration to bring to a triumphant conclusion the work in which it is engaged."

"In average times it might not make a great deal of difference whether the congress you are electing was harmonious with the president or not, but these are not average times," he said. "The president has been granted authority to carry on the measures which have given us a fine start on the upgrade."

"What do you suppose would happen in the unlikely, if not impossible, eventuality of the election of a congress less concerned with the continuation of these beneficent policies and more concerned with making ammunition for the presidential election two years hence than anything else?" Farley made a plea for the election of a democratic congress to prevent interference with the president's program.

His speech was the first of several he is to make on a swing through the south.

LOUISIANA SUSPECTS HELD IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Ellis W. Warner, 32, a paroled convict from the Louisiana state prison, and a woman companion who gave her name as Miss Beryl Kerns, 28, of Houston, Texas, were taken in custody by Kansas City detectives today at the request of Louisiana authorities.

Detectives, who said the man was wanted to face charges of robbing the City National Bank of Campt, La., Tuesday arrested him at his mother's home here.

NO AMERICANS KILLED IN CHINESE BOAT RAID

TOKYO, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A check by the Renko (Japanese) news agency today revealed there were no Americans or other Occidentals aboard the river steamer Yingkow, on which a dozen persons were reported slain in a raid by brigands.

The news agency reported that one Japanese and 11 Manchukuoans were killed.

Fair, Slightly Warmer Predicted for Today

Fair and slightly warmer weather today was forecast Thursday by the weather bureau. Temperature extremes near 74 and 92 were predicted. Thursday's temperature range was from 77 to 90 degrees, but a steady breeze during the day tempered the heat and in places made electric fans unnecessary. The country is generally clear except for a stretch between southern New York and New Jersey and Missouri.

Even our eyebrows go up!

SO we can't blame you for being skeptical over Grandpa's amazing rejuvenation!

Seriously though, there is a point we'd like you to consider: If you're feeling sort of worn-out and "no-account" . . . just not quite up to snuff . . . perhaps you have a sluggish intestine, due to lack of bulk in your diet.

So why don't you eat Post's 40% Bran Flakes every morning? It contains bran to supply the bulk you need, to help keep food wastes moving along the intestinal tract . . . and to promote regular elimination. It also contains other parts of wheat, to supply that appetizing flavor. You'll love it!

PAY HIKE BATTLE FACED IN COUNCIL

Abrogation of Raises To Be Sought at Monday's Session by Lyle.

Abrogation of salary reinstatements and raises for 590 employees amounting to about $35,000 for the year will be asked at Monday's meeting of council, it was announced Thursday afternoon by Councilman George B. Lyle, of the 11th ward and a member of the finance committee.

Lyle will seek to divert the savings to "a partial reinstatement of the 10 per cent cut now imposed on all non-school employees of the municipality."

His announcement followed tabling by the finance committee, until the October finance sheet is prepared, requests for raises for 59 additional employees at a cost of $5,507.06 for the remainder of the year. The deferred action probably will thwart efforts of at least a similar number to file supplementary requests for increases.

Councilman Howard C. McCutchen, of the second ward, who attended the meeting of the finance committee, told that body that if it continued to grant raises, he had "from 25 to 30 who have not been active in politics and who have no one to look out for them, who I want to file an application for."

The committee prepared to make a study of salaries with a view of adjusting them in the October sheet, but decided that the present financial condition of the city will not warrant any additional increases.

Mayor James L. Key has vetoed virtually all the increases which came to his desk and they were passed over his veto. Those passed over his veto were for 518 employees and entailed an outlay of $20,608.97 for the remainder of the year. He had contended, as Lyle does, that reinstatement of the 10 per cent should be made before basic raises are liked.

Councilman Aubrey Milam, vice chairman of the finance committee, exhibited a resolution passed January 15, 1934, by council pleading itself to divert any additional funds to relieving the pay roll percentage slash.

DR. RAYMOND R. PATY TO TEACH HILL CLASS

Dr. Raymond R. Paty, dean of men at Emory University, will assume leadership of the H. Warner Hill Bible class of the St. Mark Methodist church at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

DR. RAYMOND R. PATY.

He will succeed the late Judge H. Warner Hill. A special musical program is planned featuring the joint orchestra of the Atlanta Girls' High and the Decatur Girls' High schools offering vocal and instrumental numbers. A record-breaking attendance is expected Sunday morning, according to Albert Armstrong, president of the class.

LABOR BOARD TO HEAR LOCAL STRIKERS TODAY

Charges on the part of 150 women employees, members of a garment workers' union, that the Nunnally-McCrea Manufacturing Company have been violating the code in regard to salary and working conditions will be aired before the Atlanta regional labor board at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the old postoffice building.

The workers staged a walkout Wednesday, alleging unpleasant working conditions and insufficient pay. Pickets were posted for a short while but were withdrawn later. The strikers were employed at the company's Mitchell street plant.

T. H. McCrea, president of the company, in a statement Thursday denied the charges of the workers and said that his company is operating strictly under the cotton garment code and is complying with it to the letter. He cited the fact that his company was called before the board in January but was thoroughly exonerated when it was shown that the code was being complied with.

His statement follows:

The publicity given yesterday and today in the papers would indicate to the general public that we were treating our workers unfairly and that we are attempting to make the minimum wage code of $12 per week the maximum. This statement is false and we have proof to the contrary.

There also make mention of the fact that this will be the third time that we have been called before the board. This statement is correct, but they should have stated also in this connection that at the last hearing in January our company was thoroughly exonerated, and it was proven that we were complying with the code.

The fact of the business is that the management has taken the matter in hand and has adjusted the treatment of the workers at the last hearing and my understanding is that the workers are now employed at our plant at Roswell, with the distinct understanding, to which they agreed, that they would come back and cooperate with the management, instead of dictating to the management.

Now, with reference to the third hearing, which is set for tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the federal building, with the state that we had not been apprised of any direction on the part of our Mitchell street workers by the house committee, which is supposed to take this matter up with us for adjustment before making complaints to the regional labor board.

We feel that we have been treated unfairly in this respect and unfavorable publicity given us in the local papers, which will be copied throughout the country.

GEORGIAN FINDS CIVIL WAR PARDON TO GRANDFATHER

In a dusty trunk hidden in a corner of the attic of his home in Jasper county, Sydney Hodge Baynes found a printed pardon signed in faded ink by Andrew Johnson on the eighth day of November, 1865. Mr. Baynes brought the paper to his office at 316 Peachtree avenue Thursday day and puzzled over the historical incidents connected with the paper.

The document, which resembles a high school diploma in old English and plain script lettering, declares that "Whereas, E. W. Baynes, of Jasper county, Georgia, by taking part in the late rebellion against the government of the United States, has made himself liable to heavy pains, let it be known that I, Andrew Johnson, do hereby grant a full pardon."

According to Atlanta historians, many of these pardons were granted to members of prominent families after the war. These families, wishing to receive their voting privileges, either went in person or sent a representative to Washington to obtain the paper. The conditions on which the pardon is granted stipulate that an oath of fealty be taken and that no slave labor be heretofore employed.

Mr. Baynes knows little of his grandfather, to whom the pardon was granted, except that he killed two Yankee soldiers who came to the plantation with a rope to hang him. He had never seen the paper, nor had his father, who is now 81 years old. Consequently, the finding of the formal declaration of pardon with "William Seward, secretary of state" and "Andrew Johnson" in dim lettering was like turning the pages of an unread family history-book.

REVIVAL OPENS SUNDAY IN PATILLO CHURCH

The new auditorium of the Patillo Memorial church at Decatur will be used Sunday morning for the first time when a revival series slated to last through September 2, will begin with the Rev. Robert L. Armor conducting.

The church's new home was built by volunteer labor and was completed this week. It is of wood and will seat several hundred more persons than the old building, which adjoins. In the future all regular services will be held in the new auditorium.

CHARGES OF PITTMAN ON PENSIONS PLAYED

State Not Responsible for Placing Vets on Rolls, Henson Explains.

Charging that the accusation of Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Carterville, that Confederate veterans and their widows are being dropped from the pension rolls for failure to support Governor Talmadge is a reflection on every county ordinary in the state, Captain A. L. Henson, state veterans' service officer, Thursday issued a statement in which he said that the state administration has nothing to do with placing veterans and their widows on the pension rolls.

The statement follows:

"My attention has been called to a statement made by Judge Pittman in the speech at the Piedmont hotel Wednesday night substantially as follows: 'I was asked by a man a few days ago if my father was a Confederate soldier and I replied he was and my mother is drawing a pension unless Talmadge has struck her name. He strikes the names of veterans and widows when he finds out they are for me.'"

"This statement of Judge Pittman in so far as it relates to striking names from the pension rolls is utterly false and silly."

"Not only is it false and silly, but it is a reflection on the integrity of every ordinary in the state of Georgia. Lists of pensioners are furnished this department by the ordinaries of the counties and remittances are made to the ordinary in accordance with the lists as furnished. The department has found that the ordinaries are diligent and unselfish in protecting the interests of veterans and widows and no name has been, or ever will be, stricken from the pension rolls except upon the recommendation of the ordinary of the county where the veteran or widow lives."

"The records of this office show that Mrs. Leila M. Pittman's name (the mother of Judge Pittman) was placed on the pension rolls of this state in the year 1890 for the third quarter. The ordinary of Walker county has regularly supplied her name on his list for Walker county and remittances have been made to the ordinary for every payment down to date in accordance with the list furnished by him."

"I did not feel that this false statement should be permitted to go uncontradicted in view of the fact that, as above stated, it impugns the integrity of the faithful and efficient ordinaries of the state of Georgia."

The political campaign was enlivened somewhat Thursday by the formal announcement of Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams in the Market Bulletin that the publication of the Bulletin would be continued. This was assured and made known last week when Governor Talmadge released tied up funds of the department of agriculture to the commissioner.

Adams, writing in the newest issue of the Bulletin, once more attacked the governor and charged that he was trying to help his former executive secretary, Tom Linder, get elected commissioner.

Man Drinks Poison In Municipal Court

Norman M. Bruce, 38, of 300 West John Calvin street, College Park, was in serious condition at Grady hospital Thursday night as the result of poison taken in the courtroom of Judge Clarence L. Bell, of municipal court, Thursday morning after he had been bound over under a $300 peace bond on complaint of his wife.

As soon as the court announced that Bruce would be held a court attendant for a glass of water, turned to a friend and gave him his automobile keys, and saying that he would not need any bond swallowed tablets said to contain poison.

Bruce, said to be a World War veteran, resisted attendants seeking to rush him to a hospital and handcuffs were necessary to subdue him.

SOUTHEASTERN RELIEF PARLEY OPENS HERE

Co-ordination of FERA Work Studied by Officials From Seven States.

Representatives from seven southeastern states met with relief officials from Washington in a conference which opened Thursday at the Henry Grady hotel. The meetings will continue today.

Co-ordination of rural rehabilitation work of the FERA in the southeast with other government organizations, including the AAA, was the chief topic before the conference, which was one of the periodic meetings of federal relief administrators to discuss problems that may arise in their work.

Lawrence Westbrook, assistant federal relief administrator in charge of the rural rehabilitation program, will arrive here from Washington today to address the gathering. Alan Johnston, southeastern field representative of the FERA spoke Thursday, pointing out that at the present time the rural work was the main item in President Roosevelt's relief program.

States represented are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. Included among the more than 50 in attendance are relief administrators, social service directors, agricultural extension service directors, home economics directors and directors of rural rehabilitation of the various state administrations.

Georgia representatives stated that it was expected 5,000 families in this state would be approved for rural rehabilitation by November, with 1,521 already approved.

Other Washington officials in attendance at the sessions included J. Phil Campbell, co-ordinator between the AAA and the FERA; A. E. Gilman, supervisor of rural rehabilitation in the office of Lawrence Westbrook, chief of that division; Tap Bennett, regional co-ordinator of the AAA and FERA; A. G. Smith, in charge of canning cattle purchased in the drought area and turned over to the FERA; T. P. Lee, advisor on rural rehabilitation; C. L. Chambers, regional supervisor of agricultural extension work for the department of agriculture.

COTTONSEED INDUSTRY DENIES PRICE CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The organized cottonseed industry of the south today denied and asked dismissal of the charges of the federal trade commission that it had depressed the prices paid to farmers for cottonseed.

The industry, represented in the National Cottonseed Products Association and Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association, said that on the contrary it had built up the cottonseed trade and had increased the prices received by farmers.

The national association asserted the commission had unfairly complained against it for the reason that the acts complained of had been pursued under rules for the industry proved by the commission several years ago.

The denials were in the form of a legal answer to the commission's formal complaint charging them with conspiracy to hinder competition in the purchase of cottonseed throughout the southern states and to fix prices for that commodity.

A third defendant, the Oklahoma Cottonseed Crushers' Association, filed an answer, saying it was not connected with either of the other associations.

The national association's answer said the trade commission's rules under which the association claimed it was operating were issued under the commission's procedure which enables it to set up trade practices as much as NRA now sets up codes of fair competition.

The rules were issued in 1928 after a conference at Memphis presided over by the commission. The national association said a large section of the industry agreed to abide by the rules, and that the commission had never notified the industry that such rules had been rescinded.

RFC Position Bared On Industrial Loans

Banks of Georgia will be enabled to extend credit to industrial borrowers without unduly impairing their liquid position, it was revealed in a statement made Thursday by Eric Cocke, manager of the Atlanta agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was stated that the RFC's corporation's power to make loans directly to industrial borrowers, it is authorized to purchase participations in such industrial loans to be made by banks, or agents lending agencies, and to make loans directly to industrial borrowers in co-operation with the banks. The sale of any participation to the RFC is without any liability on the part of the bank as indorser or guarantor.

The amount of the corporation's participation shall not exceed $500,000 in any instance and shall not be loans already made by banks, but refers only to eligible industrial borrowers and it must appear that they are unable to obtain the entire loan at prevailing bank rates. The participations will be for a period generally not in excess of two years, though in exceptional instances the corporation will consider agreements to purchase participations up to five years, said Mr. Cocke.

The rate of interest will be the prevailing bank rates, but in no case in excess of 6 per cent, he asserted. The Atlanta agency, located in the Federal Reserve bank, will supply application forms to be used in applying for such loans, said Mr. Cocke.

Confirmation Refused Of Capone's Removal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The department of justice officials today refused to say whether Al Capone, Chicago gangster, was being moved from the penitentiary at Atlanta to the New Alcatraz prison near San Francisco, as had been rumored in the southwest.

They said 34 prisoners of a desperate type had been transferred from the McNeil Island prison in Washington state to the new penitentiary, but declined to give their names.

Officials said when the movement of prisoners to Alcatraz had been completed they would make public the records.

Princess Receives $250,000 in Film Suit

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Princess Irina Yusouppova receives $250,000 under the terms of the settlement of her libel suit against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Ltd., Fanny Holtzmann, chief of the princess' American counsel, announced tonight.

In addition the motion picture producers are to pay the costs involved in prosecution of Princess Yusouppova's suit based on the film "Rasputin and the Empress."

The costs were estimated at between $65,000 and $75,000.

The total amount of the settlement, Miss Holtzmann said, includes the $250,000 pounds (approximately $125,000) awarded the princess in her suit which was tried in an English court.

President's Mother Back in U. S. With Piece of Tweed for 'Her Boy'

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—With a piece of tweed for "her boy, Franklin," Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the president, returned today from a two-month trip to Europe.

"I want him to make it up into a suit," she said as the liner Ile De France came up the bay. "I bought it in Scotland and it's a bargain. It cost just five pounds, but it's splendid tweed."

She also brought her son first-hand news that "England and France are strong for him."

"That's why they made such a fuss over me," she chuckled.

Did she know she had been hailed as "the greatest hit in Paris since Lindbergh" and "the most effective good-will ambassador this country has sent to Great Britain?"

"My, my! Did the papers say that?" the president's mother asked. "It takes the newspapers to say nice things."

The radiant 73-year-old lady received reporters in her stateroom after a 20-minute delay. Her secretary sent word she had slept late.

The partly-opened door revealed a breakfast tray and a cheery figure in a white-furred dressing gown.

Later, in a shiny black straw hat and black and white print dress, she came forward to greet her interviewers.

"I'm in fine health and have had a good rest," she began, after finding seats for several. "I said everything else already."

"You see, I was traveling as a private citizen. I went mainly to be with my nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fellowes Gordon, in Aberdeen, Scotland, and my sister, Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes, in Paris."

Asked about her chat with Queen Mary over the tea cups at Buckingham palace, she said, "Oh, we didn't talk about anything special. The king, of course, asked about Franklin. My son met him years ago."

"It was nice at the palace because we three were alone—much nicer than it I'd had to go with a crowd."

Saenz Duel Challenge Ridiculed by Batista

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Joaquin Saenz's challenge to Fulgencio Batista, commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, to a duel, was termed "foolish" by the army chief who says his challenger is attempting a coup against the government.

Batista, a former army sergeant said he was not interested in "silly talk about duels which cannot possibly be fought."

The challenge of Saenz created great excitement in the island. Batista charged Saenz endeavored to get his support for a projected coup to overthrow President Carlos Mendia on June 16. He added that Saenz, a former secretary of the Cuban treasury, tried to carry off the coup himself after he had learned the president intended to ask for his resignation from the cabinet.

Officers Instructed To Quit as Firemen

You can't be a policeman and a fireman at one and the same time, the Atlanta police committee decided Thursday night.

The committee instructed Supernumary Patrolmen T. B. Clark and J. E. Ivis, who are also supernumary firemen, to resign from the fire department if they wish to hold their jobs with the police.

Only routine business occupied the police committee at the regular meeting. The committee voted to send Captain S. E. Woodson, head of the identification bureau, to Macon to attend a conference of state and county officials who plan to establish a state fingerprint bureau for the identification of criminals.

Also, the proposal of Councilman Joseph E. Berman to abolish the Winthrop system of tagging traffic law violators was sidestepped by the police body. A decision on the matter was deferred until next meeting.

The committee named N. E. Vaughn a supernumary patrolman.

Soaking Rains Come To Drouth Area

By the Associated Press.

Farmers of Missouri and Illinois were singing in the rain Thursday. The precipitation almost reached cloudburst proportions in several localities and pattered down on hundreds in time to save some of the corn crop, push later crops along and revive pastures.

A downpour of 5.42 inches was reported at Mexico, Mo., the heaviest since 1928. Union City, Mo., had 4.20 inches; Hermann, 3.55. Ten out of 25 Missouri stations had more than one inch.

A violent storm in Tuscola, Ill., filled dry stream beds, stalled highway traffic and soaked fields in 5.63 inches of rain. St. Louis had the heaviest rain in 13 months.

Farmers of northern and eastern Iowa saw assurance of an average crop of corn following intermittent showers of the last four days. The heavy precipitation had denied the drouth in parts of northern Kansas, had brightened Michigan harvest prospects and had rescued farmers from total loss in southern Minnesota.

At other points in the mid area, showers had come too late, it was believed, to salvage major crops, but they alleviated a desperate water shortage.

ALL 5 RECAPTURED AFTER PRISON BREAK

Fugitives From Virginia Penitentiary Trapped in Woodland.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A cleverly planned and daringly executed prison break earned only three hours' freedom today for five convicts who fled from the state penitentiary after overpowering a guard.

Trapped in a woodland some 30 miles from the penitentiary after abandoning their stolen automobile when the police pursuit became too hot for them, the fugitives made no show of resistance when state police and penitentiary guards closed in upon them.

Billy Lynn, one of the convicts, who was serving a 45-year term for the robbery of a bank at Ewing, Va., had in his possession the pistol taken from the penitentiary guard, but he made no attempt to use it.

Taken with Lynn were Edward Veal, 21, Lynn's companion in the Ewing bank robbery, who also was sentenced to 45 years for the crime; Claiborne Layne, a negro serving a life term, and Paul Austin, negro, serving 37 years for burglary. Wellford Hayden, a negro life term, was captured shortly afterwards.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and % of our food decays in our 24 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—24¢. ©1934, C.M.C.

TEACHERS' RELIEF FUND GIVEN STATE

$69,600 Monthly Grant Made by U. S. for Employment of 1,160.

Georgia Thursday was granted $69,600 per month by the federal emergency relief administration for the employment of 1,160 needy teachers during the winter months. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of education, announced.

The teachers will begin immediately with classes in general adult education, vocational education, nursery schools, parent education, and with illiterate students, as well as workers' education, a new course which has been included in this year's program.

The money, which will be available for the latter part of August, and until about next May 1, was allocated to Georgia some time ago by the FEERA, but confirmation was received by Mr. Collins from Washington officials only Thursday.

Dr. Collins said a series of meetings will be held next week to inform superintendents, relief authorities and others interested as to the emergency educational program for another year.

Supervisors for the program will be present at each of these meetings and will outline the program completely.

The first of these meetings will be held August 21, at Albany, Tifton, Douglas and Jessup. The following day other meetings will be held in Columbus, Macon, Swainsboro and Savannah. On Thursday, August 23, meetings will be held in Rome, Atlanta, Gainesville and Athens.

All of the meetings will open at 10 a. m., and the county superintendents of schools located in the cities in which the meetings are to be held will have charge of the programs.

Mr. Collins emphasized that the classes to be conducted by the teachers will be entirely separate from the regular educational facilities, and that the use of relief teachers to take care of overcrowded classrooms in public schools has been forbidden under the program.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES by Sally Saver

Guest dinners during torrid weather require special planning if they are to be effortless and enjoyable. Company for dinner looms as a real problem upon the kitchen horizon. Such meals, to be no great effort, should be wisely planned with chilled appetizers and desserts and easily prepared main dishes. Instead of attempting an elaborate lengthy dinner, serve a refrigerator supper or a crisp cool luncheon on the porch or in a shady spot on the black lawn. The pattern of sunlight filtering through leaves, the soft, warm midsummer air and the rhythmic hum of the out-of-door world will lend a pleasant background to a simple meal and the conversation between friends. A well-poised, rested hostess is more important to a successful party than an elaborate meal. The following menus will suggest many delightful possibilities for a midsummer dinner or porch luncheon:

Iced Tomato Juice Summer Canape*
Broiled Steak or Veal Roast*
Corn-on-cob Buttered Beans
Cucumber Boat Salad*
Refrigerator Dessert*
Iced Tea

Cold Ham Loaf
Salad Supreme* Hot Buttered Rolls
Tomato Slices Potato Chips
Sweet Mustard Pickle
Fig Pudding with Whipped Cream or Ice Cream
Fruit Punch

(*) Indicates recipes given below.

Summer Canape—Cream 2 tablespoons butter with 1-2 teaspoon prepared brown mustard and spread on 6 rounds of brown bread toast. Cover with a ham mixture, made by combining 1 cup minced ham with 1-4 cup chopped fresh cucumber pickles. Garnish with slices of stuffed Spanish olives. Serve cold.

Veal Rolls—Have 2 pounds veal cutlet, 1-4 inch thick. Cut into 6 pieces, having them about twice as long as they are broad. Make a dressing by combining 2 cups dry bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper and 8 chopped sweet gherkins. Spread a thin layer of it over each piece of veal. Roll and fasten with skewers or toothpicks. Dredge with flour and fry in hot butter until a golden brown. Pour 2 cups white sauce over the rolls, cover and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 45 minutes, or until rolls are tender. Baste frequently with the sauce or turn the rolls 2 or 3 times during the baking.

White Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter and add 2 tablespoons flour, stirring to a smooth paste. Gradually add 1 medium can cream of mushroom soup and stir constantly until the sauce becomes hot, but not thick. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper and 6 chopped sweet gherkins. Pour over the rolls.

Cucumber Boat Salad—Chill 8 cucumbers, peel them, cut into 2-inch lengths and cut in halves. Remove the pulp from the centers, being careful not to break the outside. Peel 2 tomatoes, cut in cubes and drain off the juice. Mix the cucumber pulp and cubed tomatoes with 1-2 cup chopped celery and 1 tablespoon minced onion. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and moisten with mayonnaise. Fill the cucumber boats with this mixture and arrange on crisp leaves of lettuce. Garnish each salad with a slice of fresh cucumber pickle. (Cucumber boats may also be filled with tuna fish or salmon salad.) Refrigerator Dessert—Combine 1 cup rice flakes (measured after having been rolled fine) with 1-4 cup powdered sugar, 1 package dates chopped, 1-3 cup nuts, 12 marshmallows cut in pieces and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Whip 1-2 pint whipping cream and fold into this mixture. Place in pan lined with waxed paper in refrigerator until firm. Serve plain or with sauce.

Salad Supreme—Dissolve 1 package lemon gelatin in 1 cup boiling water, then add 1 cup cold water less 2 tablespoons, 2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt and a dash of cayenne pepper. Chill, and when slightly thickened, stir in 2 cups cabbage, cut fine, 1 cup tart apple, cut fine, and 8 stuffed Spanish olives, sliced crosswise. Put into individual molds, or one large mold, and chill until firm. Turn out of mold and garnish with watercress, strips of pimiento and radish roses.

FINGERPRINT WORK TO BE STUDIED HERE

Sheriffs and deputies from the northern part of the state will attend the meeting and those desiring to establish fingerprint departments will be given equipment without cost.

M. L. Hanson, special agent in charge of the national bureau at Birmingham, will be among those giving instructions. John B. Winn and J. D. Ragsdale will represent the Fulton county department, which was established several months ago.

M'DUFFIE TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

Phil C. McDuffie, opposing Representative William B. Hartsfield, of Fulton county, will launch his drive at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Slaton school in the third ward. Hartsfield's home ward. All other legislative candidates have been invited to attend.

"I intend to conduct my campaign on the issues and not upon personalities. There is too much involving the welfare of the county at stake and I am trying to present matters that are of vital concern to the whole people."

The lease is for a term of years on a straight rental basis aggregating $25,000. The property was leased from Charles M. Marshall, executor, and its dimension is 25 by 125.

RETAIL COAL DEALERS SEEK CUT IN PRICES

31 DeKalb and Fulton Counties Sign Petition to Code Authority.

Thirty-one coal dealers of Fulton and DeKalb counties Thursday petitioned the divisional code authority to cancel immediately the prices fixed on retail coal, on the ground that the prices are too high.

The dealers who have signed the petition declare that they can sell coal at lower prices and still make a fair profit. They set out that they are observing the code wages, hours and fair practices. Thomas H. Austin, of the Standard Coal Company, one of the petitioners, said that his company can sell coal to the public, "with a fair profit to ourselves at $1 to $1.25 per ton below the fixed prices."

The petition was addressed to the divisional code authority of division No. 17, retail solid fuel industry. W. Riley, secretary of the authority, confirmed the fact that the petition had been filed with him but declined to comment. He said it will be forwarded to J. C. Collins, authority chairman.

The dealers charge that the retail coal business in Fulton and DeKalb counties has come to a standstill because of the price-fixing. They charge that unemployment is being increased and the industry ruined, working a "grave injury to the NRA by arousing unfavorable public opinion."

It was pointed out further that

Fulton and DeKalb counties represent the only area in the Georgia-Florida district where prices have been fixed. It is estimated that there are 74 coal dealers in the Atlanta area, and of this number 31 signed the petition. The list of the firms signing follows: Chiles Coal Company, West Side Coal Company, Maffett Coal Company, S. D. Harrison, Peek Coal & Transfer Co., Patterson Lumber & Coal Co., Sullivan Coal Company, Elisha Sullivan, William Sullivan, H. S. Rogers, J. M. Feemster, C. W. Hunter Company, Mainier Coal Company, B. ## Snake's Lack of Venom Saved Life Of Preacher, Say Pathologists Here

By RALPH T. JONES.

The reason Albert Teester, North Carolina Holiness preacher, did not die by rattlesnake bite, according to pathologists and toxicologists of Atlanta, is because he didn't get a large enough injection of venom from the snake's fangs. That is all.

In any event, his chances of survival would have been about four times as great if he had received prompt medical treatment, as they were under the entire lack of treatment on which he insisted.

During 1929, the most recent year for which records are available, there were 480 cases of venomous snakebite reported in the United States, according to figures furnished by Dr. Roy R. Kracke, toxicologist at Emory University. Of these antivenom treatment was promptly administered in 400 cases. The treatment was not used in the remaining 80 cases. And the percentage of fatalities in the 400 treated cases was 4, while the deaths among the non-treated cases were at the rate of 16 per cent.

Regardless of the death rate, however, all authorities questioned Wednesday were unanimous in the opinion that it was an extremely foolishly rash act to permit a poisonous snake to bite you. Not only because of the danger of immediate death, but also because of the serious after effects which are almost certain to reduce the length of life.

Life To Be Shortened.

All agreed that Teester, the Carolina preacher, will die years sooner than he would have had he left that rattlesnake alone.

Dr. Kracke, Dr. Jack Norris, pathologist at Grady hospital, and other doctors explained that the fatality of a rattlesnake bite depends upon many factors. The amount of venom injected by the snake through the hollow tooth that is his fang, differs according to the size of the snake, the condition of the snake at the time and the way in which the fangs strike. A snake that has recently used its fangs will be practically free of venom. In this respect, Dr. Norris pointed out that the second bite which Teester received was almost certainly harmless, because all the venom had been used on the first one.

The resistant ability of the person bitten also counts heavily in the outcome of the bite. Teester, a mountain farmer, 39 years old, was probably in fine health and little likely to die from an average sized snake, anyway.

In this respect, it is noted that the mortality rate among children bitten by rattlers is twice that among adults.

Dr. Kracke said that large diamond back rattlers had been found which yielded a half-teaspoon of venom when they struck an animal. He pointed out that the amount of venom injected by the snake into the human body was full. These, however, are

Wallace Issues Order To Aid Leaf Growers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—

Secretary Wallace said today he had signed an administrative ruling permitting flue-cured tobacco growers whose production is less than their allotment under adjustment contracts to sell the product of other growers which is in excess of their allotments.

The action followed a conference of an advisory group representing all sections of the flue-cured tobacco belt, at which it was determined that some farmers in each section would grow more than their allotments while others would produce less than they might under the contract figures.

KIDNAPED LABATT REPORTED FREED

shortly after his brother was seized and held for $150,000 ransom for Tuesday afternoon adjustment contracts to sell the product of other growers which is in excess of their allotments.

The headquarters representing a scene of activity all day with various persons calling there, and it had been assumed that negotiations were being conducted there.

A telephone contact was established early this morning, and it apparently was shortly after that time that Hugh Labatt departed.

Complete secrecy surrounded the movements of the go-between, while a considerable number of police remained on duty at the hotel.

Whether Hugh Labatt was making a personal contact to deliver the $150,000 he is reported to have brought to Toronto could not be established.

In any event, police continued their activities, putting the search for the missing head of the London (Ont.) brewery on an international basis by obtaining the aid of Detroit (Mich.) detectives.

"Mr. Labatt will not be back tonight," it was stated by a spokesman in his hotel suite in which a number of police officers were sitting after Inspector John Miller of the provincial police had revealed that Labatt was gone.

Mrs. Hugh Labatt said at her home in London that her husband had not been there and that she had not heard from him since he went to Toronto shortly after the kidnapping.

Detroit police joined full force with the Canadian authorities, including the famous Royal Mounted, but apparently all were without an important clue, though there were indications that police here knew something of Hugh Labatt's movements.

In London and Sarina, Ont., 50 miles away from which city Labatt was motoring when he was kidnapped, police continued their search of the countryside, and one man who had been in contact with the officers said London authorities believe John Labatt is "not many miles" from his own home.

General S. C. McBurney, head of the Ontario detachment of the Mounted and uncle-by-marriage of the kidnapped man, visited the hotel suite here during the afternoon.

GANGSTERS OF DETROIT ARE TRACED BY POLICE

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Police today sought to learn where known Detroit gangsters and racketeers were last Tuesday when John S. Labatt, London (Ont.) brewer, was kidnapped on an Ontario highway, but denied that "anyone in particular" was suspected.

The most intensive mobilization of police manpower in months was ordered after a conference between high officials here and four Canadian officers. There were reports of efforts to link the abduction of members of the Joseph "Legs" Laman kidnapping ring that flourished here a few years ago.

It was revealed that fingerprints had been sent to Albany, N. Y., where John J. O'Connell Jr. was abducted last year and released after payment of $40,000 ransom, but whose prints they were, police would not say.

Chief of Detectives Fred W. Frahm, who ordered the concentration of the homicide, holdup and special investigation squads on the case, said "We are not looking for anyone in particular, but that we are merely looking for a starting place, by checking the whereabouts of gangsters."

"House of Rothschild" Plays Buckhead Now

Today the Buckhead theater is offering, as an extra special attraction, at no increase in price, one of the finest screen productions of the year, a picture that critics have already said must inevitably be included in all selections of the ten best pictures of 1934.

This is the George Arliss film, "The House of Rothschild." Its excellence rests on the performance of Arliss—by far the best he has ever done—and on the perfect historic settings for the time of Napoleon and Waterloo. The scenes and costumes are ideal and as correct as they can be made.

The theme of the story is the emancipation of the Jews of Europe from the horrible restrictions which had been placed upon them and it shows how the great international banking house of Rothschild, decided, with its financial support, the outcome of wars and the fate of nations and of kings.

'Treasure Island,' Now at Grand, Makes Beloved Story Live Again

Jim Hawkins, Dr. Livesey, Squire

Trelawney, Captain Smollett and all those beloved old characters of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" live again in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of the grand classic which began its Atlanta Grand theater, last night at Loew's Grand theater. It will be there for a week and everyone of you will be able to see it and enjoy it in that time.

Few books so well beloved as "Treasure Island" have been so faithfully transferred to the screen, have kept the spirit of the story, the subtle atmosphere of genius and charm like this. It is almost—quite—like sitting in an easy chair before a winter fire and enjoying the story all over again.

There is no change in plot or development until the very end. Then Long John Silver and Jim Hawkins part in somewhat different circumstances. In fact, Jim helps Long John to escape from the ship when she touches at Jamaica on the homeward voyage and, incidentally, Long John takes a number of bags of doubloons, stolen from the treasure, with him, hidden in various recesses of his garments.

The one place where the picture falls short of the story is, strangely enough, the portrayal of Long John Silver by Wallace Beery. Beery is a grand actor but the casting department made the mistake in choosing him for the role. He is too well liked by the picture fans to successfully portray such a villain and his physique is not the physique that imagination has given the one-legged pirate.

If it were possible to recast the one role and give it to John Barrymore, now—the picture would probably have been 100 per cent perfect instead of the 98 per cent it is as is.

Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, Otto Kruger as Dr. Livesey, Lionel Barrymore as Bill Bones, Chick Sale as Ben Gunn, Lewis Stone as Captain Smollett are ideally cast. So also are the minor roles. Never was there a more villainous crew as those pirates of the Spanish Main and never was dialogue more properly fitted to the place than the right English atmosphere and there are scenes, especially where Captain Smollett raises the Union Jack above the blackhouse on the island and announces "this spot is England," that touch closely home to all of us who boast the blood of England in our veins.

The heroes of "Treasure Island" are, perhaps, but creatures of imagination, but they sprang from the mind and heart of a man who knew and loved his England and they are not different from tens of thousands of real Englishmen who have suffered forth all over the world and have carried English ideals to every corner of the globe.

It is a picture of the Grand program include a fascinating Travel-talk about Africa and a cartoon comedy that doesn't score so heavily.

Last night's performance was a special occasion, a very special picture. It will run for a full week, starting today, as the regular feature.

Jack Holt, popular portrayer of hero roles, will appear at the Rialto theater today and for the week following in his latest Columbia production, "The Defense Rests."

This picture is said to provide him with one of the most suitable characterizations of his career and Holt himself has stated that he got a greater "kick" out of his work in this than in anything he has previously done.

He plays the part of an utterly unscrupulous and unethical criminal lawyer, a man who is totally unconcerned about the guilt or innocence of his clients and whose sole interest is whether or not he can win his case in court.

Jean Arthur, his leading lady, is the lawyer's secretary, a girl who sees the utter criminality of his code and who, loving him, strives desperately to show him how wrong he is. How the story works out to a finish so satisfactory everyone leaves the theater smiling at the end is a clever piece of plot construction with a surprising and entirely legal quick to provide the big punch at the finish.

Manager W. T. Murray has again exercised rare judgment in his selection of short subjects to complete an alluring program for the week.

Amateurs on Stage At Capitol Tonight

At the Capitol theater tonight an entertaining extra added attraction on the program is the weekly Friday night amateur contest. Ten contestants will appear at the 9 o'clock show, in addition to the regular Capitol program, to compete for prizes.

Amateurs who will appear tonight are Josephine Wynn, Hawaiian dancer; Clyde Blackstone, guitar and mandolin specialty; Jacqueline Conklin, acrobatic dancer; Bertha Ellis, singer; Helen Domingos, acrobatic tap; Claude Anderson, harmonica; Miriam Johnson, guitar and mandolin; Marion Bullard, singer; Blair Crocker, magician, and Rufus Curry in imitations.

On the screen the Capitol offers "She Was a Lady," starring Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods and Ralph Morgan. The stage attraction for this week is "College Cut-Ups," featuring a variety of vaudeville acts.

"Man With Two Faces" Has Robinson at Fox

One of the strangest and most baffling murder mystery dramas is scheduled to be shown at the Fox theater beginning today under the title "The Man With Two Faces." The picture, a First National production, is based on the stage success by George S. Kaufman and Alexander Woolcott, two of Broadway's famous playwrights.

Edward G. Robinson has the role of a noted Broadway actor and director, while Mary Astor plays the part of his sister, one of the most beautiful and talented actresses of her time. Ricardo Cortez, usually the villain of the piece, has the heroic role in this picture, being the theatrical producer who is in love with his star performer, Miss Astor.

In addition to the players mentioned, there is a large and talented cast. Miss Clarke has an important part as have Arthur Byron as the family doctor and John Eldredge. Other important members of the cast include Emily Fitzroy, David Leland, Henry O'Neill, Arthur Aylesworth, Mary Dale and Virginia Sale. Tom Reed and Niven Busch dramatized the screen play from the original which was produced by the Sam H. Harris Theatrical Enterprises, Inc. Archie Mayo directed.

Other treats on the program are an all-color Betty Boop cartoon entitled "Poor Cinderella," an amusing comedy, "Pugs and Kisses," and a Grantland Rice Spotlight.

Wife Reveals Ransom Demand For Missing Pastor-Husband

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Aug. 16.—(AP) The Rev. R. H. Askew, an evangelist, has been missing from his home here for two days and his wife disclosed today she had received a note telling her to "get $25,000" if she hoped to see him alive again.

The 28-year-old evangelist, who has been preaching what he terms the "four-square gospel" in a tent here for several months, failed to return from a trip to Smithfield, 25 miles west of here, last Tuesday.

His wife, who is about 50 years old, turned over to Sheriff Paul Garrison this morning a note she received through the mails Wednesday.

Typed on cheap paper and enclosed in a plain envelope, it said:

"Get $25,000 at once or you will never see your husband alive again. Instructions will follow."

The letter bore no signature. It was dated August 14.

Mr. Askew attended Duke University, Durham, for a time last year and then came here as pastor of the Free Will Baptist church. His sermons drew criticism from some members of the congregation, who said he was preaching doctrines not in accord with the church's beliefs.

After an investigation by church officials he was told he must conform to the church's accepted doctrines or give up his pastorate. He left the church and began his evangelistic services in the tent.

'BOB' LA FOLLETTE BARES PLATFORM

More Federal Assistance Advocated for Farmer and Laboring Classes.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The leader of the new born progressive party in Wisconsin, Senator Robert M. La Follette, today declared for a "genuine political realignment" on a platform on which he will seek reelection.

His platform aims at increased governmental assistance for farmer and laborer, and includes among its 20 planks:

Control of credit through a government-owned central bank; federal and state development of electric power and municipal ownership of public utilities; public ownership of all railroads; opposition to the sales tax; larger veterans' payments and immediate payment of the bonus, and a referendum before declaration of war, except in case of actual invasion.

Other platform highlights were statements that labor should have the right to organize and should benefit by increased earnings and shorter hours; that the farmer is entitled to a profit as well as cost of production; and that the relief work program should be expanded, if private employment fails, with the government providing every person able and willing to work with a job at living wages.

The platform is expected to be the same appeal on which the senator's brother, former Governor Philip F. La Follette, will wage his political "come-back" for the governorship.

The senator also advocated old age pensions and unemployment insurance; immediate development of the St. Lawrence river project; government control of armaments and munitions industries; higher relief standards; the end to speculation in food and other necessities, and added security for farm and home owners.

PWASupervisor Ousted For 'Chiseling' Acts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Secretary Jokes lashed out today at what he termed "chiseling" in the public works administration with the disclosure that Fred R. Deaton, of Texas, had been dismissed for "carrying on a private correspondence from his residence with persons interested in private projects in Texas."

Jokes said no one else in PWA was involved and that he knew of no similar cases.

The secretary said as far as he knew Deaton had had no success in influencing approval of any public works project because "everything that is checked and rejected."

Deaton, the secretary said, admitted his activities.

A group supervisor in the PWA finance division, Deaton was said by the secretary to be planning to enter the bond business in Dallas.

be quoted said in response to questions that interstate commerce commission rules require contested rates to be actually in effect before action against them can be filed before the commission.

They would not say definitely when or whether they would go to the commission.

Attorneys for all the 44 railroads operating in the state which contested the reduction order in federal court this week, only to have the court rule it had no jurisdiction under the Johnson bill and refer them to the state courts, could not be reached by representatives of two of the other largest lines in the state, who declined to be quoted, said that, while negotiations were in progress, their rates definitely had not been committed to accepting the order.

Governor Talmadge meanwhile confirmed that the Southern and Seaboard had notified him of their acceptance and added that he was "very gratified."

The end of the court fight marked the close of a long contest between the governor and the railroads in which he has sought to reduce rates.

Officials of the public service commission estimated that the cuts would save Georgia shippers $750,000 a year.

"Since the new commission took office last year we have issued eight orders against the railroads, six of which are in effect, bringing cuts to the shippers of about $1,500,000 a year," Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit said Thursday night. "Two of these orders, one on fertilizer and the other on sand and gravel, have been enjoined by the courts and later withdrawn by the commission. But the savings put into effect total just about $1,500,000 yearly."

The "armistice" between Governor Talmadge and the railroads ends one of the longest and hardest fought conflicts in Georgia.

Shortly after the new public service commission took office last year, it began investigating railroad rates and published a series of reduction orders, these reductions averaging 27 per cent. The railroads announced their opposition and Governor Talmadge, who had appointed the commission, struck back through Comptroller General Harrison, who rejected the slightly reduced rate assessments submitted by the railroads and issued new assessments which increased the total of the railroads to $145,000,000. These assessments went to arbitration where they still are.

The arbitrations in some cases have been enjoined by the courts, but settlement of the rate situation and prospective acceptance of tax assessments equal to those made last year undoubtedly will end the arbitration and also the litigation coming out of it.

Eight Orders Issued.

The commission issued eight orders against the railroads. These cut rates on "class" shipments, naval stores and petroleum, the rates now being put into effect, cotton and cotton seed and passenger fares which have been put into effect previously.

"We have made six out of eight rate orders against the railroads stick," Vice Chairman George Goode said Thursday in dismissing the work done by the commission. "For myself, I am more or less satisfied and I believe the balance of the commission is, too."

The commissioner added that his board has already cut rates on bus and power, telephone, express and gas rates.

"As soon as we have finished with the now pending gas case, our slate will be just about clean," he said. "We have a number of local rate cases to look into and we will get into them as soon as possible."

CHURCHMEN REBEL AGAINST HITLER

Evangelical Leaders Refuse To Take Oath of Reichsfuehrer.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The German Evangelical church crisis flared into open revolt today against nazification under the dictatorial administration of Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, acting as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's aid in the move to unify the Protestant sects.

Leaders in the Evangelical church opposition in Berlin, under the chairmanship of the Rev. Johannes Koch, decided today to refuse to take the oath of office drawn up by Bishop Mueller's national church synod on August 9. The synod approved the oath for all Evangelical church pastors, but the opposition today rejected it.

The oath pledged the ministers and all church employees "to be faithful and obedient to Reichsfuehrer Hitler and to the German nation every service and sacrifice befitting Evangelical German citizens."

The Evangelical bishops, Meiser and Wurm, of Bavaria and Wuerttemberg, decided they would only after the oath from ministers under their jurisdiction.

The opposition bloc spokesman declared that only the state, not the church, was entitled to demand an oath supporting political authorities.

Supreme Court Judge Flor, a member of the church opposition council, in a legal opinion declared unconstitutional the decisions of the national synod last week, making Dr. Mueller dictator. The opinion will be submitted to the Reich government.

The opposition pastors were determined to urge that Reichsminister of Justice Franz Guertner proceed against the Mueller church government on the grounds that it was unconstitutional.

IMPERIAL BANNER BANNED IN REICH ON HITLER'S ORDER

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Confidential orders were issued today to all members of the Nazi party to cease displaying the old imperial black, white and red flag of Germany.

A threat of expulsion for failure to comply with the orders was included, foreshadowing an end to the banner which the late President Paul von Hindenburg, always a monarchist at heart, loved and valiantly defended.

The step was taken only after his death ended the necessity for further deference to the old field marshal's sentiments.

The order is regarded as a fresh indication nazis are determined not to rest until Germany, inwardly and outwardly, is 100 per cent under the swastika.

Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller's abrupt assumption of dictatorial church powers last week and reports of contemplated changes in diplomatic posts were recent developments in this direction.

ENEMIES FAIL TO OUST LONG

the bills they were sent to the senate for immediate advancement, committee consideration and passage by the Long-Allen majority in the upper house.

The bills were all quickly referred to the finance committee in a brief senate session.

One of the bills passed would protect the voters' registration books from seizure under court order. It passed the house, 27 to 21. The New Orleans registration books are now in charge of the national guard there, where Long is battling away with Mayor T. Semmes Wainwright for victory in the September 11 congressional primary.

Other measures aimed at increasing Senator Long's power in state affairs, and crippling the forces of Mayor Wainwright were pushed through the house in the morning session.

Senator Long was moving across the rear of the house chamber late in the afternoon, conferring with his friends, when Representative Lester leaped to his feet and cried:

"Mr. Speaker, I move for the full invoking of Rule 20, the anti-lounging rule. I move that the entire chamber be cleared of outsiders. Huey P. Long and his henchmen are shouting orders to members on the floor of this house."

"Will that include the press, also?" another representative asked.

"Yes, yes, put the press out," shouted a dozen members.

Speaker Ellender banged his gavel for order as the members swarmed to the front seeking recognition.

Above the uproar, Ellender called to newspapermen:

"I will ask the press to keep this out! It's a lot of to-do about nothing."

Lester then temporarily withdrew his motion.

The senator stood at the rear of the chamber, behind the rail, watching one after another of his bills flash to victory across the electric voting machine, and never batting an eye at the shouts of "damn crook" and "spurious Hitler" which his critics hurled in his direction.

Showing a following of 60 in the 100-member house, the Long forces put through in a two-hour sitting bills to prohibit the courts from interfering with the militia when the latter is under mobilization orders of the governor, as is now the case in New Orleans where troops hold the city voting registration office, despite a district court injunction; to empower the governor-appointed board of elections supervisors to name special representatives at the polls in primaries scheduled for September 11; to place the ballots and other election paraphernalia in the hands of elections board representatives instead of local deputy sheriffs, and to prohibit the city of New Orleans, with whose officials Senator Long is at war, from taxing anything not already taxed by the state.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, Mayor T. Semmes Wainwright called upon the people to act in the crisis.

"Have the money gods gone mad so that water flows in the veins of the people of Louisiana?" he asked. "What chance have we as citizens of Louisiana, who permit this continuous tyranny?"

The federal grand jury heard more witnesses in New Orleans in its investigation of income tax returns of Senator Long and some of his associates and Judge Walter Gleason, of civil district court, a supreme court justice candidate in the September primary, refused to handle litigation in the political squabble, referring it to Judge Nat Bond, of the same court, who has returned numerous decisions favoring Wainwright.

Another blow was struck at Senator Long when President Roosevelt today appointed Sidney A. Freudenstein, an anti-Long, as United States marshal for the eastern district of Louisiana, to succeed Tom Dutton, a Hoover appointee.

"I believe the Lord will come on the Feast of Trumpets," the religious overseer asserted. "And I believe he will come this year." The Feast of Trumpets occurs September 10.

Byrd 'Farewell' Note Disclosed by Aids

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 16.—(Via Mackay Radio).—(AP) A message from Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, last seen by his aids today that the noted explorer was so ill in June that he wrote a note and placed it where the relief party could find it, fearing the party might "arrive too late."

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, leader of the tractor expedition which is now in the advance base, reported in a radio message that the note referred to letters Byrd had written to various persons and told where they could be found.

Dr. Poulter said that although the admiral is showing marked improvement in health it will be some time before he fully recovers his strength.

"He was true to the polar code and played the man gallantly," Dr. Poulter reported, despite the fact that "he has gone through things... that must have been beyond human ability to withstand."

The message revealed that Admiral Byrd, after recovering slightly about June 21 from the effects of fumes from his stove, had a relapse in July which "was quite as severe as the first."

MELLON TAX RETURNS MAY BE INVESTIGATED

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Standard-Star of New Rochelle this afternoon publishes a copy of a news article to the effect that Lee Parsons Davis, of that city, former county district attorney, has been requested by the office of the United States attorney-general to make an investigation of the income tax returns of Andrew W. Mellon.

The federal grand jury in Pittsburgh earlier this year declined to indict Mr. Mellon.

ALL-BRAN MADE HIM REGULAR AS CLOCK

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

We quote from his voluntary and enthusiastic letter: "After reading your advertisement, I decided to use ALL-BRAN. I had been taking pills right along. But now I don't have to take pills."

"I take ALL-BRAN every morning, and am as regular as the clock. It has done me a lot of good."

Stephen Higgins, 51 S. Stein St., South Norwalk, Conn.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet this condition can be overcome, usually, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Tests show this delicious cereal provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Use it also in making fluffy muffins and breads, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. And get Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SUNKEN SHIP YIELDS $5,000,000 IN BULLION

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Bullion valued at 1,000,000 pounds ($5,000,000) was recovered today by a private salvage firm from the sunken steamer Lauretic, which went to the bottom with a German torpedo in 1917, the London Mail says.

Admiralty divers salvaged 5,000,000 pounds between 1918 and 1924 and abandoned the remaining 1,000,000 because the ship had been smashed and buried in the sand.

PROFITEERS BEWARE!

The promptness with which President Roosevelt warned would-be speculators and profiteers not to attempt to take advantage of the drought situation is encouraging assurance that the government will permit no effort by conscienceless men or groups to benefit from the crop damage which has brought disaster to millions of American farmers and cost the federal treasury hundreds of millions of relief money.

The excessive heat and long dry period in the section which has become the granary of the United States sharply curtailed the size of this year's food crops and depleted existing surpluses, but there will be sufficient grain stocks to feed America until next year's crops come in.

The margin of safety is so small, however, that should unscrupulous profiteers attempt to manipulate grain stocks through "corners" or other objectionable methods followed in past years, prices might not only be sent sky high, but, as the result of hoarding of stocks, might bring an actual shortage of foodstuffs.

The president makes it known in his warning that the federal government will not countenance such trading activities, and that those responsible will be dealt with to the full extent of the law.

The virility and success with which governmental investigations and prosecutions have been conducted under the Roosevelt administration leaves no doubt as to the course that will be adopted in the event attempts are made to gain improper profits from the crop failure which has brought distress to so large a portion of the country's population.

The president's statement is a sound assurance that food prices will not undergo unwarranted increases, and should, as a result, allay any misgivings that have already arisen on this ground.

EUROPE'S MYSTERY PRINCE.

The ambition and determination of former Emperor Zita has kept Archduke Otto so much in the limelight during the past decade that his comings and goings have become of world-wide interest.

From the day the Hapsburgs lost the Austrian throne, Zita has been obsessed with the determination that her son should some time occupy the throne where his ancestors sat for so many generations. His entire education has been with that end in view, and now that he has achieved man's estate the efforts of his mother have been intensified.

During the past two years the unsettled political conditions in Austria have led to almost continuous reports of coups being planned whereby the monarchy would be restored and Otto enthroned. Dollfuss, Stahrenberg and a half dozen other Austrian leaders have in turn been designated as those who would finally bring about the return of the Hapsburgs.

The assassination of Dollfuss and the resultant uncertain governmental conditions in Austria have led to renewed reports that the way is being prepared for Otto to immediately ascend the throne. Backing up these reports were others that he was going to Italy to contract a royal marriage, a step regarded as a deliberate play for Mussolini's support of his kingly claims.

But the mysterious Otto fooled the world. Instead of going to Italy, he left his residence in Belgium for Sweden, where he now is, enjoying supposedly the cool climate of that country during his summer vacation.

Italy would undoubtedly like to see a monarchy in Austria again, with Otto on the throne. France apparently is opposed, chiefly, it is thought, because the little entente nations on the other side of Austria fear that the ultimate result of such a step would be the joining of Austria and Hungary again, with a resultant threat to their peace.

France is in intimate relation with the little entente nations—Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. It is certain that Paris will not lend encouragement to Otto so long as the Balkan nations are opposed. This certainly is increased by the fact that Italy has been aiding Zita, evidently in the hope that Rome's influence in central Europe will be increased. That France does not want.

So the future of Otto is still in doubt. Austria probably would like to see the Hapsburg throne restored, but she will have but little to say about it. The attitude of France, Italy and the little entente will be the deciding factor.

BLACK COMING HOME.

The resignation of Eugene R. Black as governor of the federal reserve board brings to an end a service to the federal government that has been one of the outstanding features of the Roosevelt administration.

Despite the arduous and vitally important nature of the duties performed by Governor Black, not a single voice has been raised to criticize the wisdom of the manner in which he has directed the federal reserve system. During a period when new and untested policies controlled most of the activities of the government, and when the heads of other federal departments have been almost constantly under fire, the reserve board has functioned smoothly and efficiently under Mr. Black.

It was only after much persuasion that Mr. Black was persuaded to accept, with the beginning of the Roosevelt administration, the responsibility for the direction of the great federal reserve system, but once in office he stuck to his work until he felt that the reorganization of federal finances had reached a point where his services were no longer needed.

When that time came, he asked the president to let him go back home, where he would again be with the friends with whom he is so earnestly devoted. Although loath to accept his resignation, President Roosevelt has finally agreed to let this generally beloved and respected Atlanta "come back home," although he did so only after he had entrusted him with a new position of ranking importance to the welfare of the people.

So Governor Black returns to Atlanta, with an arduous work well performed and charged with the delicate and vitally essential task of acting as liaison officer between the vast machinery of the federal government and the various financial institutions of the country. This duty he will perform in addition to his responsibilities as governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, to which position he returns after a leave of absence granted that he might render the broader service asked of him during the reorganization of the national government.

The acumen, devotion to the highest ethics and the unflinching good temper exhibited by Governor Black in rendering a difficult service during trying times has set a high example in the performance of a public task.

Atlanta is honored in the possession of such a citizen and will greet him upon his return with a warmth in keeping with the devotion he feels for those among whom he was reared and has lived his life and the splendid record of public service he has made.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Ready for The Fray.

The Belgian line of forts is ready. The French line of forts is ready. England is going to double its air equipment. France is going to increase the length of service in the army. Mussolini keeps two classes of soldiers under arms instead of one, as is usual. Germany is feverishly pushing her armaments and has just added a pursuit plane to her forces which can make 300 kilometers per hour. Tests have been made with spreading deadly microbes in crowded squares of Paris and the tests have been pronounced successful.

Twenty years after the greatest war of history all Europe is getting ready for the next one. Forgotten are the 10,000,000 dead, forgotten the 20,000,000 wounded and maimed. The youth is being whipped up for a new display of patriotism by dying on the battlefields. War has always been and war will always remain, say the old gentlemen who make wars.

That's the argument of my great-grandmother against the railways. She didn't believe in them. The world never came, she said. It is true she never rode in a railway carriage but countless millions of others did since then. The best way to prevent war is to be ready for it, we are told. Statesmen tell us this year, that's what they are called—statesmen, grown-up people, too.

The Upshot.

If that war comes and lasts any length of time, Europe will look somewhat like this: Paris will be a heap of ruins, with three and a half million corpses lying about; Berlin, the same. Rome will be no different. These are the inevitable bombs which will set fire to whole districts within a few moments. Those bombs are dropped by machines that come soaring across the frontiers without equipment, radio-controlled. Mixed with the fire-setting bombs will be cylinders that will release poison gas. There is not a single mask made today that will keep out the new gas. Death is being manufactured, now, said General de Ponderoux last week. The only thing to do in the event of war is to flee, he advised. Fine advice to be given by a general and to be repeated by all the Parisian newspapers.

These words alone will produce an indescribable panic, if ever war comes. And then flee which way? To London? To New York? To Moscow? To Berlin? To Zurich? It is not likely that any country in Europe will succeed in keeping out of the next struggle, says General de Ponderoux. Maybe they will. The only thing to do is to flee, he advised. Fine advice to be given by a general and to be repeated by all the Parisian newspapers.

News Behind the News

BY PAUL MALLON.

DROUTH WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The government has been very cagey about giving out drouth figures.

The New Dealers prefer to talk in general terms. They act dumb if anyone asks how much food prices are going up, or the extent to which farm purchasing power will be affected.

They have good reasons for such caution. They learned from the preceding administration that prophecies are dangerous. Also, they know all initial estimates must necessarily be inexact.

But, if you look in their inner coat pockets, you will find a few unofficial expert guesses which show a ray of good hope in all the gloom of widespread misery and desolation. These are at least the best possible estimates of prospects at this time.

FOOD The food experts privately guess that the general level of prices will increase less than 9 per cent. They think corn will go to $1 a bushel by November and wheat possibly to $1.15, unless the government steps in. Meats also will increase much beyond the general level. Vegetables, however, should increase but little.

The 9 per cent expectation is not alarming when you consider that the general level of food prices increased but 6 per cent from its extreme low of last year. In 1924, food prices rose 9 per cent without hardships, although the people had more money then than now.

These experts, in their own homes, are preparing to eat more beans or spinach and fewer steaks and pork chops. They believe any one who wants steaks or pork chops will be able to get them, but fancy prices will have to be paid. They contend the family budget will not have to be enlarged extensively for the careful buyer who wants to keep his table within his means.

They may be a little optimistic about this, because such wholesale generalities do not always work out in retail. You will always find chiselers who will try to use the drouth excuse to increase this price of macaroni and olives.

FARMER BUYING There is every indication that total farm purchasing power may be 10 per cent greater on a national scale than it was last year (some inside government figures run the increase up as high as 15 per cent). Such a paradox is explained by the cotton situation. Drouth hurt the cotton crop materially in only three states (Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma). Every other cotton-growing state will benefit by getting the advantage of increased prices for its crops and its purchasing power will be materially greater than last year. The government will put considerable sums of money into the three affected states to bring their purchasing power up, thus maintaining the general national average much higher than the doldrums of 1933.

Something of the same situation exists in corn and other drouth area crops.

It means that farmers who have any crops at all should get real money for them, while the afflicted sections are being aided by government funds.

MIX-UP Government officials are getting their stories slightly mixed up again on the silver announcement.

One official, so high that he takes orders from no one, explained to newsmen the other day that the silver nationalization move could not have been timed to offset the effect of President Roosevelt's Green Bay speech. He agreed that one came within three minutes of the other, but insisted that the nationalization order was planned weeks before to go into effect automatically as soon as the price of silver reached 49.34 cents. The price reached 49.34 cents just three minutes before Mr. Roosevelt began to chide businessmen at Green Bay.

The explanation ordinarily would have been accepted by everyone, but a cabinet officer almost simultaneously told a story which did not jibe. He was trying to show that it was impossible for the silver nationalization announcement to have leaked to Wall Street. He said the reason that the market advanced two days previous to the announcement was because the government itself was boosting the price up. In other words, the government itself forced the silver price up to 49.34 cents three minutes before the president spoke.

It is understood the quarterback of the New Deal team is going to take steps hereafter, so they will all tell the same story.

HARMONY The Tugwellians tried to make peace with Senator Smith, of South Carolina, on the side lines a few days ago, but there is to be no peace.

You may recall that Senator Smith was Professor Tugwell's severest critic at the last congress. When Tugwell was arranging to speak recently in Smith's state, an emissary went to Smith and asked the senator to appear with Tugwell and to introduce the professor. Instead, on the eve of Tugwell's appearance, Senator Smith issued a statement blasting all dictators.

WRITHE Mr. Roosevelt's political maestro, Louis Howe, picked up a weekly news magazine not long ago and read that he had been writing on a bed in the White House as Mr. Roosevelt left for Hawaii. He did not recall writing or being in bed, as he had accompanied the president to the ship, hurriedly discussing a lot of last-minute business.

Friends out in the country poured letters in on Howe, sympathizing with him, until he began to writhe in earnest. Replying to one friend, he stated: "I decline to be buried until I am dead." Howe feels better and is more chipper than at any time since he has been in Washington.

Manufacturers Don't Use a Cheap Motor To Keep Down the Cost of a Swell Car

By Robert Quillen

Today a little factory closed and left its employees jobless because it couldn't pay the "high wages" required by the NRA. It had been paying its workers $1 a day.

Somewhat of a liberty will say: "It isn't right. In order to meet competition, a man must keep his production cost low. To do that he must pay low wages, and nobody has a right to interfere."

That wouldn't be good argument even if human beings were mules. It pays to give work mules enough feed.

This isn't the fourteenth century. People are not serfs, to be worked to death under the whip.

The first business of civilization is to give every man the right and opportunity to earn a comfortable and adequate living. There can be no lasting prosperity or security for anybody until that is done.

We can't fix the price of goods and then adjust wages to maintain it. The living wage must come first, and everything else must be adjusted to that foundation.

If an industry cannot live without paying starvation wages, the country will be better off without it. The worker must be enabled to consume what he produces or all industry will come to an end.

The starvation-wage factory is a price-cutter. Its own workers are not the only sufferers. By starving them it is able to undersell factories that pay fair wages, and as these factories lose business they are forced to discharge part of their workers.

Thus the workers who might earn fair wages are unable to find jobs because their work is done by paupers.

It is easy to undersell and destroy legitimate producers if you can find workers desperate enough to work for almost nothing. Japan is doing it. She is capturing the world's markets by pauperizing her workers.

But you can't build prosperity that way. Japan must sell her products abroad because her own people are too poor to buy.

A business can't pay decent wages and survive, let it die for the common good and let its patronage go to a fair-wage factory and its workers find jobs there.

The country doesn't need a cut-throat contractor who must starve his work-stock to make ends meet.

physical training to keep a woman trim and fit.

Housework, especially washing and ironing and scrubbing, is good health exercise, provided the movements are varied often, not all one thing all day.

A few daily setting-up exercises will do much to keep a woman from going limp and sagging as far as the horizontal movements of the Last Day Symphony, words and music a dime while the edition lasts.

Put a foot apart, arms raised high, palms forward, swing hands in arc in plane of body down to touch the floor with fingers behind heels, then up and over to touch floor on other side. Stand up, arms extended high, palms forward, swing arms down in wide arc until fingers nearly or quite touch floor without bending knees, then back as far as arms will go without strain. Repeat each of these movements from three to ten times each night and morning.

emphasis on contract bridge, which recently resulted in a swirl of ugly passion at the Ashbury Park tournament, has lately come to be suggested a revival of the American indoor sport of stud poker. Although there are many authorities, or card sharks, selling books and giving the devoted lessons in the brutal game of bridge, the only book of instruction in poker which your correspondent has come across is one called the Stud Poker Blue Book. It was composed by George Henry Fisher and published by the Stud Poker Press, of Los Angeles, Cal.

As Mr. Fisher describes the game and its ethics it seems much simpler and more sporting than the game of bridge, which has lately come to be regarded by many citizens as a national nuisance. Sportsmen desiring to play stud poker usually do so with malice aforethought and with a view to selling books and giving the devoted lessons in the brutal game of bridge, the only book of instruction in poker which your correspondent has come across is one called the Stud Poker Blue Book. ## STATE PROHIBITION LAW HIT BY GILLIAM

Candidate, at Brunswick, Says Enforcement of Dry Act Is "Farce."

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP) Ed Gilliam, of Atlanta, outspoken wet candidate for governor of Georgia, in an address here today attacked what he termed "the brutal and outrageous injustice" of prohibition law enforcement in this state.

He termed prohibition as a public policy, an "absurd and scandalous farce," and said that the more money a man has, the less taxes he pays, and under the prohibition system, the general rule is that the more liquor a man has for personal consumption and entertainment of friends, or the more he has for sale as a bootlegger, the less attention is devoted to him by the law enforcement officers.

"I know a man in Atlanta worth $1,000,000, and some weeks ago I checked his tax returns and found his total taxes paid to the state, the county of Fulton and the city of Atlanta, all combined, were $27.50. The explanation was that he converted his wealth into money or other invisible property and hid it out."

"That's about the same with the prohibition system, the more liquor you've got stored away to entertain your friends when you give a party, or the more liquor you manufacture or handle as a bootlegger, the safer you are from interference by the law."

"And don't deceive yourselves that the little fellows, the poor fellows, the fellows without money or influence, are not bitter in their hearts against such a system. They are boiling with rage and bitterness, as they have a right to be, when they see the big bootleggers going back and forth without molestation, and see the prominent citizens throwing big liquor parties without a particle of attention or interference by officers of the law."

Gilliam left here to speak Friday morning at Joplin and Friday afternoon at Baxley.

3 CANDIDATES ENTER PUTNAM SENATE RACE

EATON, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Three candidates, one a cousin of Governor Eugene Talmadge, have entered the race for the state senate seat from Putnam county.

Putnam elects the senator this year to represent Jasper, Morgan and Putnam counties. Frank A. Dennis, cousin of the governor, Asa M. Marshall Sr. and J. O. Wall, candidate for commissioner of agriculture in 1932, have entered the contest. Mr. Dennis is actively campaigning for his kinsman.

Marshall is a former sheriff and tax collector of Putnam county. All three are making a vigorous campaign.

Florence S. Bitchell is offering to succeed himself as representative. He is opposed by Newt Wilson. Both are farmers and distillers.

NEW DEAL GAINS OUTER BY PITTMAN

Candidate, at Ellaville, Outlines Benefits Georgia Farmers Receive.

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Voters of this section this afternoon heard Judge Claude Pittman cite New Deal benefits to Georgia farmers and ridicule Governor Talmadge, who claimed credit yesterday for relief funds brought to Georgia.

"Governor Talmadge says now he is the best friend the president has among the governors in the nation," he said. "He told labor the same thing."

"We remember many other people for whom the governor claimed friendship when all the time he had something up his sleeve."

"The governor says this now in the hope that he will fool somebody who may have forgotten about the scandal of the CWA in Georgia, or his opposition to the national farm relief program which has brought millions of dollars in federal money into the state and which has more than doubled the price of all farm products."

"We know in Georgia that Governor Talmadge and President Roosevelt are as far apart as the two poles; that the governor is completely out of step with the New Deal."

Judge Pittman launched into a detailed discussion of his own program, based upon the fundamental honesty of administration and a new deal in governmental affairs.

He attacked Talmadge "hypocrisy and demagoguery" and asserted his confidence in the outcome of the campaign.

Judge Pittman was introduced by Will D. Raugh, who headed a motorcade of 28 cars which escorted the speaker from Americus, where he came following his address at Dawson this morning. Judge Pittman spoke from an especially erected platform.

A number of the grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren were present.

Delegations were here from Talbot, Macon, Taylor, Marion, Lee, Webster, Stewart and Mitchell counties. Judge Pittman will spend the night in Dublin prior to launching another strenuous day of campaigning.

He will speak at Whitesville at 11 a. m., at Hawkinsville at 4 p. m., and at Fort Valley at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

CANDIDATE QUOTES

NEWSPAPER ARTICLE

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Governor Talmadge today was charged with furnishing ammunition for the attack on the New Deal.

Judge Claude Pittman, of Cartersville, opposing Talmadge for the democratic nomination as governor.

The article produced a copy of a northern newspaper, opponent of President Roosevelt, and read an article on an interview with the governor, which quoted Talmadge as saying, in part, the Old Deal.

"Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, holds the bread and circuses of social welfare of Nero, Caligula and other mad emperors of the cause of the decline and fall of Rome. The same policy of handouts under the brain trust, he argues, is a menace to the institutions of free-born America."

"The federal dole and relief work," says the governor of Georgia, "is encouraging idleness at the expense of the taxpayers. The CWA gets much easy money that it draws labor from the farm. What is needed is aid to make men self-supporting and self-sustaining. But that isn't done by giving a man gratis more than he would make by working. It saps morale."

Commenting on the article, Judge Pittman said: "This article which I hold in my hand is a sample of the kind of literature the reactionary republican, who would grind the little man into the earth and who would return America to the exploitation of the farmer and the laborer—this is a sample of the perverted stuff about the great program of President Roosevelt that these reactionaries who favor special interests and corporations are distributing in an effort to discredit our democratic president."

Says Paper Is For.

"By granting this interview to the Chicago Tribune, the bitterest newspaper foe of the president, Governor Talmadge has lined up unequivocally with the Old Deal."

"Will the farmers of Georgia who are getting 14 cents a pound for cotton and three times the price they received last year for tobacco, due to the AAA, the plow-up plan, the Bank head bill and other democratic measures, continue to support Talmadge?"

"Will Georgians, who have received aid of the federal government despite Governor Talmadge's opposition to it being given them, stand by Talmadge in opposition to Roosevelt, who has proved the greatest friend the little man in this state and the nation has ever had?"

"Will Georgia, in the heart of the south which has been reflected upon by this morning's paper, stand by a man who has deliberately furnished ammunition to the bitterest foe in the midst of our great president and adopted son of Georgia?"

"Or will the voters recognize what interests possess the friendship of their governor?"

"Will they see that Governor Talmadge is lined up against the 'forgotten man'—the laborer and the farmer alike—in taking up the fight of big business which has been forced by Franklin D. Roosevelt to give a square deal?"

John ERSKINE
Reveals something about "Virginia", one of Cellini's great loves in
"The AFFAIRS OF CELLINI"

Four hundred years ago and a little more, during the winter of 1533-1534, to be precise, the pope, having seen an exquisite chalice, the work of Benvenuto Cellini, commissioned that talented goldsmith to fashion a reliquary in which the Host might be carried. Which the man did, and other things besides. It was his way to give good measure, once he had been commanded, and while completing the reliquary he set himself, as he tells us, to make the pope's portrait on a medal and first of all, he had to make the steel dies for both sides of it. At this time also he made love to Virginia.

Even if these varieties of effort seem unrelated, who shall say they really were? Benvenuto himself, who had an eye for coincidence, recognized the hand of God in unexpected places. Had he not been serving the pope, he might have stayed in his native Florence, but if he had stayed in Florence he would not have discovered the charm of Virginia, whom the will of heaven had located somewhat obscurely in Rome.

Benvenuto's simple faith has not received from careless readers the credit it deserves. In the ordinary channels of piety he was correct, and his moral honesty was unusual. Who is without frailties? He recognized his for what they were, never trying to elude conscience by blinking at fault. He committed few murders without hoping he might be forgiven. In moments of extreme danger he improvised eloquent prayers, as he could not have done had he not been well brought up, and if we may believe his own testimony, once when he was in jail he studied the Bible.

But beyond these spiritual supports he relied with confidence upon the central unity of life, especially of his own life, which he hugely enjoyed, all things in it working together for good. There would be moments, of course, to which a hasty opinion might ascribe no concatenating usefulness. For a while it seemed a mistake to arouse the pope's interest in the portrait medal, with so much work already on hand, and the presence of Ascanio in the shop made any work difficult. Ascanio was an assistant, faithful but incompetent, whom he had brought from Florence. At times he wondered why. When he was out one day, Ascanio sold a ring to a notary named Ser Benedetto, who was the friend of a certain prominent citizen who had access to the pope, and because Ser Benedetto was so well connected Ascanio didn't like to ask for a cash payment, so there was no payment at all. When Benvenuto was overtired and irritated, he would urge Ascanio to complete the transaction by collecting the money, and Ascanio would promise to, immediately after the next daybreak.

For a while it seemed as though Ascanio would be of little aid in the matter of Virginia. Virginia lived with her mother, who was called Maria. Small wonder that a good man should be drawn to a house where he called at the house, it was empty. She had fled with Virginia. For two months he went looking through the hill towns and the villages, and though he saw many a good-looking girl, it wasn't the right one. He would have continued the search if the pope had not worried about his portrait and demanded evidence of progress. Benvenuto, as we intimated before, respected the pope, who had, moreover, an effective police department. For once the unity of life didn't hold. Virginia was lost. In her place, nothing but the toil of the shop, and the inescapable society of Ascanio! Yet precisely at this point the demonstration of providence began. Mad with grief, Benvenuto cursed Ascanio for letting Ser Benedetto steal the ring, and Ascanio protested that the gentleman didn't steal it, and Benvenuto said then the thief must be Ascanio, for one of the other was holding the money back. Ascanio, seeing that his employer was in earnest at last, started to collect the bill, and being without cour-

OLD-TIME FIRE FIGHTING.

V—Fire Boats. Buildings along a water front often are little more than flimsy fire-traps. They are likely to be old, and of wooden framework; and may be stored with goods which will burn easily. In addition, there is danger from goods placed upon piers.

On a June morning in 1900, bales of cotton on a pier at Hoboken, N. J., were burning. The blaze spread quickly and some of the boats in dock caught fire.

To the rescue came fire boats of the New York fleet, and as soon as possible they were throwing jets of water on vessels in danger. One of these was the "Sable," a large passenger steamer. It had been cast loose from anchor in an effort to escape, but it was burning now; 400 stowage passengers were in danger of death. It was hard, if not impossible, for any of them to find a way to leap into the water from their low-placed quarters.

Bravely the fire-boat men came close and, under cover of streams of water, boarded the vessel and fought their way down to the stowage deck. One hundred and fifty persons were brought out alive.

The firemen believed they had saved all who could be reached when they heard cries from the "shaft-tunnel" between the engine and the propeller. With great effort they managed to enter the shaft-tunnel and save the lives of 22 men who had tried to find safety there.

Fire boats have been improved in recent times, and are still doing fine work in harbors and along the waterfront.

Miss Lawler Weds Mr. Toney At Quiet Home Ceremony

Miss Edna Lawler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lawler, of Pittsburgh, Pa., became the bride of Arnold Toney at a quiet ceremony taking place on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawler, on Ridgedale road.

The Rev. E. L. Barlow, pastor of the Confederate Avenue Baptist church, performed the marriage service in the presence of the immediate families and close friends. Prior to the ceremony Walter Sheats rendered a program of nuptial music upon his violin.

Brown crepe combined with brown satin fashioned the bride's gown, the satin being effectively used to trim the neck and sleeves. Her hat was a smart brown felt and she wore a shoulder spray formed of sweetheart roses combined with valley lilies.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lawler, brother and sister of the bride, entertained at an informal buffet supper. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake beautifully embossed and topped with white wedding bells. Narrow satin ribbons caught with white roses fell in cascades from the chandelier. Silver candlesticks held white tapers and bowls and vases of bright hued summer flowers were effectively arranged throughout the reception room.

Mrs. Lawler was gowned in black crepe trimmed in peach-shaded satin.

Mrs. O. S. Toney, mother of the bridegroom, wore black crepe with a lace trim. Mrs. B. M. Goff, sister of the bridegroom, wore black georgette with a beaded yoke.

The bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip and upon their return they will reside with the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Toney, on Evans drive. The bride is a graduate of Girls' High school, and is a popular member of the younger set. Her sisters are Mrs. Ed Loving, of Kansas City; Mrs. E. G. Bidelman, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Kathryn Lawler, of Pittsburgh.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Toney, and his brothers are G. W. Toney, and N. E. Toney and his only sister is Mrs. B. M. Goff, of Atlanta.

How to Have a Soft, Smooth, Exquisite Skin

For red, coarse, oily or shiny skin and rough, spotted wrinkled complexion, never use powder, because it clogs up the pores of the skin and creates an unhealthy condition. Use in place of powder, Dr. Blain's Cream of Cucumber, which will produce a beautifully clear, soft, smooth and healthy complexion.

Dr. Blain's Cream of Cucumber contains no harmful mercury, but is guaranteed to contain essence of cucumber; it is soothing and refreshing; its presence cannot be detected and it is considered the most refined and exquisite of all complexion preparations. Does not just rub or blow off like powder, and one application lasts all day. Excellent for chapped hands and face.

Dr. Blain's Cream of Cucumber will not grow hair, but does prevent blackheads, takes the redness and stinging out of a wind-burned complexion, and will, in time, remove all wrinkles, fine lines, and all cosmetic counters, in white, flesh or brunette, or sent direct upon receipt of price. ## Garden Club Plans Dahlia Decoration On 'Georgia Day'

"Georgia Day" at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, Ill., will be celebrated on September 25, and on that date a grand hall will be given in Chicago in compliment to the "peach ball queens," elected by Georgia citizens to represent the state upon this festive occasion. The garden clubs of Georgia have caught the inspiration, and are planning to decorate the Georgia exhibit with dahlias. Mrs. Robert Cooney, of Atlanta, and Mrs. T. H. McHaffon, of Athens, have entered into the plans, and invitation extended to garden clubs to enter choice blossoms in the display. David Long, president of the Dahlia Club of Georgia, expresses appreciation and indorsement of the plan, and Mrs. John H. Reagin offers to receive and pack the flowers for shipping.

The plan is to have 32 vases placed in the most effective way to make the exhibit attractive, and each club is asked to send a small cash donation to be forwarded to purchase suitable containers to be purchased in Chicago. Russell Whitman, director of the Georgia exhibit, is pleased with the plan, and anticipates a great day for Georgia in Chicago on September 25. Presidents of garden clubs are requested to communicate with Mrs. Cooney for further instructions.

Miss Mildred Patillo Weds Mr. Hill in McDonough, Ga.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Aug. 16.—The McDonough Methodist Episcopal church formed the setting for the beautiful marriage service solemnized Thursday evening, August 9, at 8:30 o'clock when Miss Mildred Patillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talmont Patillo, of McDonough, became the bride of John B. Hill, of Tate, Ga. Rev. C. B. Drake, pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of a representative gathering of relatives, friends and guests from a distance. Stately palms flanked the altar flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers. White red rose baskets were placed against the rich green background formed by palms and ferns and filled with a mass of white lilies. Prior to the ceremony, a musical program was given by Mrs. Lyndon Hill, of Phenix City, Ala., and Dr. T. Baron Gibson, of Canton, Ga., pastor of the bridegroom, sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly." To a "Wild Rose" was rendered during the ceremony.

Miss Viria Patillo, maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow point d'esprit fashioned along graceful lines, featuring full puff sleeves and worn over tulle of the same hue, and carried an arm bouquet of roses, lilies and asters. The bridesmaids wore a gown of similar flowers. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Sarah Johnston, of Atlanta; Miss Nontine Gilbert, of McDonough; Miss Lila Amis, of McDonough; Mrs. Ed Armstrong, of Tampa, Fla., and they were gowned in dresses designed by Mrs. Johnston. Mrs. Johnston wore a pink point d'esprit and her flowers were a shower bouquet of garden flowers in pastel shades. Miss Gilbert wore a gown of similar flowers. The gowns of Miss Amis, who wore green point d'esprit, and Mrs. Armstrong, dressed in tea-rose point d'esprit, were accentuated with shower bouquets of the same delicately tinted blossoms.

Little Viria Aurelle Barfield, of Decatur, wore the flower girl and wore a pink net over pink. She carried a nosegay of pink petals. Little Ann Wilson, of Atlanta, was train-bearer and wore a pink frock. Groomsmen included Harvey Brown, of McDonough; Ed Armstrong, of Tampa, Fla.; J. Paul Hill, of Tate, Ga., and W. D. Cornwell, of Tate, Ga.

The bride was given away by her father, Talmont Patillo, with whom she entered the church, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Pat Sharkey, of Nelson, Ga. The bride, a stately blonde, was radiantly beautiful in her wedding gown of lustrous ivory satin fashioned along princess lines, with a becoming cowl neck-line. The sleeves were long, with a huge puff above the elbow that buttoned in a tapering line to give a close-fitting appearance to the wrist. The skirt featured a long train and her tulle veil, trimmed with rosepoint lace, was caught with orange blossoms at the back. She carried an exquisite bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Talmont Patillo entertained the bridal party and out-of-town guests at a reception at their home on Atlanta street. Mrs. Patillo, mother of the bride, was gowned in figured blue chiffon and wore a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. J. B. Hill, mother of the bridegroom, wore black and white figured chiffon and her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of garden flowers.

Mrs. Hill, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talmont Patillo, has been the recipient of many social courtesies, among which was the luncheon at which Miss Viria Patillo entertained in Atlanta August 6 that was followed by a theater party; the miscellaneous shower given by Miss Johnston and Gilbert at the home of the former August 7; a seated tea at the home of Mrs. W. W. Amis, in McDonough, Saturday afternoon, August 4, a buffet Wednesday evening, August 8, and many others.

CRACKERS LOSE EXTRA-INNING GAME TO PEBBS

Schmidt, Nelson Pitch
Tough 13 Frames;
Score 7-6.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 16.—(P)—Vibor Buchanan's single scoring Earl Browne gave the Little Rock Travelers a 7-to-6 victory over the Atlanta Crackers in a 13-inning battle here tonight.

Both clubs used two hurlers for the extra-inning contest. Two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth by the Crackers tied the score at six-all and forced the extra innings to decide the issue.

After taking a two-run lead in the early innings, the Pebbles added four more in a seventh-inning rally with Malinovsky's triple and Nonnenkamp's double bring in the tallies.

Atlanta outbatted the Travelers, 17 to 11, but the Crackers were unable to bunt their blows off Sharpe and Willoughby.

BREAK O'DAY!

Here's a Real 'Red' Menace Backed
By Moscow Money!

I have discovered a new "Red" menace, financed by money from Moscow. (It spends as easily as ours.)

And this one is on the level and on the up and up, and there is no use shouting for the gendarmes or asking Mrs. Perkins to deport anyone.

The Soviets are purchasing a lot of our best harness hoes. They have just purchased Peter, a great trotter, who trotted the mile in 2:04 1-4 minutes.

And not only that, but there is a Fascist menace from Italy. The Eye-talians are buying our best hoes.

It left me a little flat, especially that Soviet angle. I have always been ready to give the Ruskies three cheers for doing what looks like a pretty fair job of attending to their own country.

But to learn they are purchasing our best trotters and pacers, and have been over a space of years, was startling. I didn't know they permitted anything as frivolous as racing.

'Twas Mr. George Stiles, the well-known trainer of trotters and pacers, who was telling me about it no later than yesterday afternoon. He was up from his farm at Rome, conditioning some hoes for the trots at Lakewood park Saturday.

"Within 10 years we will be going to Italy and Russia to purchase stallions for breeding back our own stock," said he.

Now, this isn't so startling, as we are already at that point in the running game. The English blood is the blood for distance. Cavalcade, the three-year-old champion, is by Lancelotte out of Hastily, an English sire and dam. And the English blood is going to dominate in a year or so more.

But to find that our trotters and pacers, an American development, are going abroad is something else.

CORRECT METHODS.

"They are breeding correctly," said George Stiles. "Their buyers come over and they demand speed. They also demand that the horse be a beautiful, sound animal."

"Our breeders are after speed. That is the first essential. The second essential is more speed. We don't care how the animal looks as long as it can make good time trotting or pacing. That's going to get us in trouble. Within 10 years we'll be going abroad for better blood—blood-lines we sent them."

"Russia and Italy are the two best buyers. They will pay a good price and also the $500 duty fee without a complaint. But they get the best we've got."

So there you are. The latest fascist and soviet menace.

PUT DOWN THE SPADES, BOYS.

It would be proper, I think, for the boys to put down their spades and wait until today's double-header is played before going ahead with the job of interring the New York Yankees.

The Yankees are an old club and they are weary of everything, including success. Nothing is new to them. And this is a difficult position in which to be. They are confronted with the Detroit Tigers, pennant-leads these 25 years, and therefore filled with a lot of youthful drive and enthusiasm.

It is difficult to stand against this combination. Does your sentiment go out to the side of the experienced old veteran who fights with skill and courage but lacks that intangible thing known as spirit or drive? Or do you yearn to see the brawling youngsters clout the veteran and knock him down and out and shriek, "The King is dead, long live the King!"

Well, I don't know. As an old incurable Babe Ruth fan I cannot help but sneak off in a corner now and then and wish the Babe could come up one more time in the World Series and maybe point his finger toward the distant wall and hit a home run over at the point where he had pointed. He did it in the series with the Cubs. But this, I know, is heresy. One is supposed to be for the up-and-coming Tigers from Detroit.

They are hustling. And that usually, almost always, wins. The Yankees can't hustle. The drive is gone out of them. It is an old, old task they are doing. And the roars of past World Series echo in their ears.

But it is advisable to put down those spades, grave diggers. The Yankees are not done yet. They are a great ball club even though their play is more or less mechanical. But with Ruth and Gehrig in there and the pitchers having had a rest—put down those spades, boys. There is life in the old club yet.

GEORGE STALLINGS' CLUB.

The verb "to hustle" is variously used. By July 4 it becomes increasingly monotonous to listen to the old chatter from the diamond. It consists almost always of some dumb looking pitcher standing at the coaching line and saying, over and over, "The old hustle, boys. The old hustle."

It means nothing at all. But now and then comes a team which has nerve and dash and imagination and fire and spirit and the competitive urge, and it is spoken of as a team which is hustling.

I recall an old baseball man telling me of a conversation with John McGraw in 1914 when the late George Stallings' Braves were making their challenge. The Braves were last on July 4 and had been described by the baseball writers as "the worst club ever to appear in the major leagues." In September of that same year they were champions of the world.

But this conversation occurred in August when the Giants were six games in front of the Braves. And McGraw said: "The Braves are going to win the pennant."

"Why?" asked his amazed listener, a baseball reporter.

"They are hustling, we are tired," said McGraw.

And the Braves went on to win. And then beat the Connie Mack's Athletics four straight in the series.

"Hustle" is just a word the ball players employ. Actually it means a team has at least three good pitchers who are winning games and at least three hitters who are driving in runs with regularity. And, in addition to this, the team has accidentally achieved a mental and physical balance and poise and an enthusiasm for its own accomplishments. The Detroiters have that.

A team without those three pitchers and hitters might hustle until the last shadows of the last day before eternity and never get out of the second division. So, it isn't just "hustle," although that helps.

"The old hustle, boys; the old hustle."

"RUM AND BACON AND EGGS."

Remember in Treasure Island—the old sea captain as he stumped into the inn—

"I'm a plain man. Rum is what I want. Rum and bacon and eggs. And that head o' land for to watch ships from. What mought you call me? You mought call me captain—"

It was all on the screen last night. Eddie Melniker had

RAIN HAMPER WOMEN'S PLAY AT FOREST HILLS

Players, Especially Jacobs, Welcome Day of Rest From Action.

By Bob Cavagnaro.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(P)—Rain, long a hoolioo to the women's national tennis tournament, caught up with the forty-seventh annual championship today, necessitating postponement of the four quarter-final matches.

The postponement brought with it the announcement that the final for the crown would be played on Sunday, but even this is indefinite because the prospects for clement weather commencing tomorrow are slim. Local meteorologists prognosticated that the rain might continue for two days, causing further delay.

All of the eight players who won their third-round matches welcomed the rain, particularly Helen Jacobs, the husky Berkeley, Cal. girl, who is attempting to win the title for the third consecutive year and become the third player to turn the trick since Molla Mallory and Helen Wille Moody did it.

INJURED.

Several days ago Miss Jacobs suffered a painful injury to her left ankle when an automobile driver was slammed against the foot. She limped for a while and then neuritis set in. The injured foot gave her a lot of trouble yesterday against Mrs. Mary Greif Harris and in order to gain security of foot she was given special permission to don spiked shoes.

"My ankle feels a lot better today," she said, as she rested in her hotel room. "I'm going to stay off it all day in the hope that it will be stronger tomorrow. I've been favoring the foot quite a bit, sometimes too much and then my game suffers."

Miss Jacobs' opponent in the quarter-finals tomorrow will be the veteran Elizabeth Ryan, a Californian by birth, but now a resident of London. She's been playing in major competition for a quarter of a century and still is one of the fastest court coverers in the game.

"You know I've played a lot of girls in all the years I've been in tennis, but I can't recall that I've ever met Miss Jacobs before," Miss Ryan said. "I greatly appreciate this day off because it will give me a chance to rest up and be in fine fettle for my match with the champion."

Katherine Stammers, the blonde, southpaw English girl, and Carol Babcock, of Los Angeles, will meet in the featured singles match of the day. It will be a meeting between the fourth and fifth ranking players of their respective nations and the first time either player has been put to a major test in this tournament.

Miss Stammers, playing in America for the first time, has made a deep impression on expert observers. She has found the Forest Hills courts to her liking and apparently is not flustered by playing before a large gallery in the stadium. Miss Babcock, a finalist for the title in 1932, likewise has been going along at top speed and rules only a slight favorite over her foreign rival.

The other singles matches bring together Saray Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., one of the top-heavy favorites, against Freda James, another English girl, and Barbara Hodge, of Lehigh, N. J., against Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn.

SOUTHPAW.

These four survivors of today's two rounds of knock-down matches are scheduled to battle over the 36-hole route tomorrow in a pair of international battles, Guilford facing Somerville and Campbell meeting Palmer.

Like Guilford, Somerville had to go to the final green this afternoon, defeating Ken Black, of Vancouver, finalist with Campbell last year, two up. The others had easier victories, Campbell downing Bobbitt, one-time major-league baseball player from Toronto, 6 and 5, and Palmer eliminating Gil Walker, of Toronto, 3 and 2.

Two Georgians Win In Asheville Play

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16.—(P)—Tommy Aycock, Jacksonville (Fla.) golf star and the general favorite to win the Biltmore Forest crown, went down in the quarter-finals of the tournament today before Dean Smith, of Savannah.

The Georgian fired a flock of birdies and pars in the former intercollegiate champion and won by 2 and 1.

In an all-Georgia semi-final match tomorrow Smith will meet W. R. "Dub" Fondren, of Augusta, Fondren whipped Rex Anders, of Asheville, 4 and 3, in the biggest margin of the quarter-finals.

In the other semi-final Jack Cameron, of Houston, Texas, will meet Alan Smith, Asheville's hope for the title here. Cameron's quarter-final victim was Joe Adams, of Asheville, who lost 3 and 1. Smith defeated Claud Harmon, of Orlando, Fla., 2 up.

On the Links

Jim Bramblett defeated Charles Brainerd, 3-2, in the championship fight and Harry Bamberg won over V. H. Headrick, 2-1, in the third flight in the only matches played Thursday in the Golf Association Robby Jones Course Club championship tourney.

The remainder of the first-round matches must be completed by Sunday night. The second round will be played next week.

YOUTH WINS.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 16.—(P)—Eddie Halbach, professional at Clarke's Lake Country Club, won the eighth annual Mississippi open golf tournament today with a 72-hole score of 314. A Memphis boy who has made good in his adopted state, Halbach won the title by avoiding a complete "blow-up" on any of his four rounds. Though the winning mark is more than a score of strokes over par golf, it was considered a fairly skillful performance over the rough and hilly layout.

RED RELEASED.

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(P)—Clarence "Red" Phillips, the big right-hander who came from Beaumont, Texas, to the Tigers in exchange for Vic Frazier a few weeks ago, has been released on option to the Montreal club of the International league.

The Dizzy One Surrenders

PAUL DEAN. DIZZY DEAN.

After being fined for taking a "vacation" when the St. Louis Cardinals went to Detroit for an exhibition, "Dizzy" Dean (right) and his brother were fined and suspended by Manager Frankie Frisch. They answered with a threat that they were through with the club but last night they ran up the white flag and offered to surrender but Frankie Frisch refused to accept. They were given 10 more days "off the payroll" by Frisch. While Dizzy sought to get back in uniform, Brother Paul was adamant in his demand that the club rescind his $50 for the suspension.

GUILFORD WINS OVER MUNGER

LAVAL SUR DE LAC, Quebec, Aug. 16.—(P)—Jesse Guilford, long-driving Boston veteran who was known as the "saige-sun" when he won the United States amateur title in 1922, turned back the challenge of youth offered by Jack Murger, of Dallas, Texas, today in the semi-final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Despite some erratic golf, Guilford conquered his young rival one up on the 18th green to reach the round of four, which was completed by Albert (Scotty) Campbell, of Seattle, the defending champion; Ross (Sandy) Somerville, of London, Ontario, the only Canadian who ever won the United States title, and Ernie Palmer, of Winnipeg.

These four survivors of today's two rounds of knock-down matches are scheduled to battle over the 36-hole route tomorrow in a pair of international battles, Guilford facing Somerville and Campbell meeting Palmer.

Like Guilford, Somerville had to go to the final green this afternoon, defeating Ken Black, of Vancouver, finalist with Campbell last year, two up. The others had easier victories, Campbell downing Bobbitt, one-time major-league baseball player from Toronto, 6 and 5, and Palmer eliminating Gil Walker, of Toronto, 3 and 2.

The Dizzy One Wants To Quit; Paul Is Silent

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—(P)—Dizzy Dean, turbulent pitching star of the Cardinals, ran up the white flag tonight, but Manager Frankie Frisch refused to accept the surrender.

"Ten more days off the payroll," snapped Frisch, as Dizzy, suspended with his pitching brother, Paul, moved for peace.

While Dizzy was ready and anxious to get back in uniform—and back on the payroll—Brother Paul remained adamant in his demand that the club rescind a $50 fine plastered on him for his failure to accompany the team to Detroit for an exhibition game Monday.

The suspensions followed fines assessed against the brothers.

"I don't want to lose any more money," Dizzy said. "How about it, Paul? I'll pay part of the money you owe the world."

But Paul, less talkative than Dizzy, shook his head.

It appeared tonight that club officials, keeping in mind that Dizzy is the chief of the two and has been the leader in their defections from the club, expect him to bring pressure on Paul and bring about a joint return to the squad.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association.

Martin Beck, the theater owner, is one of the most rabid golf fans I know. He has watched all kinds of golfers all over the world.

It was only natural for Martin to be on hand at Merion. There, he seemed deeply impressed by two things:

1.—In every two some playing the short thirteenth hole, one player would be on the green, the other in one of the many traps surrounding the green.

2.—Almost every time Gene Sarazen, Mac Smith or Tommy Armour played the long and fairly narrow eighteenth, their drives would be down the middle and their second shots nicely on.

The other players invariably missed one of these shots.

Form doesn't always name the winner, but it certainly keeps a player where he can win when the breaks are right.

RED RELEASED.

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(P)—Clarence "Red" Phillips, the big right-hander who came from Beaumont, Texas, to the Tigers in exchange for Vic Frazier a few weeks ago, has been released on option to the Montreal club of the International league.

TWO TEAMS IDLE AS RAIN FORCES HALT TO GAME

Tigers Play Twin Bill for Last Appearance in New York.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(P)—Almost everyone but the Yankees, it seemed today, concedes that the Detroit Tigers have demonstrated they possess too much power to be lodged from their strangle hold on the American league pennant lead.

The New Yorkers, somewhat battered and bruised, are five and a half games down to the pace-setters with about six weeks of campaigning to go, but they feel confident they turned the tide in yesterday's victory over the Bengals and they will pursue their recovery program in the double-header tomorrow which winds up the crucial series. Today's rain, washing out the fourth game for the time being, was greeted with loud cheers by the athletes in both camps.

TIGERS GOOD.

"The Tigers are good," commented Joe McCarthy, the usually silent pilot of the Yankees, but they haven't clinched the pennant yet. Mickey Cochrane's club got plenty of breaks in running up 14 straight. It is just beginning a tough trip around the east and may be due for a slump. The Yankees are not out of it, not by a long shot. We have a long home stand that should bring the club back to the best. Johnny Broocks's fine pitching yesterday was one of the tonics we needed. There's one thing you can depend on—the Yankees will keep fighting."

"We'll keep bearing down," countered Cochrane, "and win every game we can. I'm not claiming the pennant yet myself but I don't see how this ball club of ours is going to be stopped. The way it's hitting."

Cochrane said he planned to start Elden Auker, his freshman pitching star, in the first game of tomorrow's double-header. He is undecided whether to start Vic Sorrell, one of his veterans, or give the sensation, Schoolboy Rowe another crack at the Yankees in the second game. Rowe won handily on Tuesday, for his 13th consecutive victory, and has appeared to have the "Indian sign" on the New Yorkers.

Johnny Murphy, ex-Fordham University right-hander, and Lefty Gomez, probably will be McCarthy's pitching choices. Gomez is anxious to gain revenge for the trouncing he took in the opening game of the series when the Tigers knocked him out of the box.

GREAT CROWDS.

The three games of the series so far have drawn close to 100,000 spectators. If the weather clears for tomorrow's twin bill, the Yankee stadium may be the scene of another capacity or near-capacity gathering. More than 25,000 fans were turned away on the first day.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig especially welcomed a day of rest. Lou is all patched up with adhesive tape and has a spike wound, just above one knee, as a reminder of Tuesday's hectic double-header. The Babe, who has slid three times so far into home plate and scored once, also is bruised up from his heroic efforts. The Tigers have revived Ruth's fighting spirit, however, and he seems determined to give them something to remember him by.

Bill Dickey's return behind the plate tomorrow will help lift some of the strain put upon the Yankee "junior varsity." The slugging backstop has had two full days of rest.

Johnny Green Gets Dodo at Asheville

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16.—(P)—Another hole-in-one was scored this morning at Biltmore Forest when Johnny Green, of Atlanta, playing in a friendly foursome, smashed his iron shot into the can on the third hole, the same hole on which E. M. O'Herron, of Charlotte, registered a "dodo" yesterday.

Green's ball landed on the edge of the can and took a bit of turf into the hole with it. The distance was 140 yards. He was playing with S. H. Bridges, Joe Horacek and J. Callaway, all of Atlanta.

Trudy Ederle Denies New Channel Trial

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(P)—Reports that Gertrude (Trudy) Ederle, who swam the English channel August 6, 1926, was going to have another try at it next summer, brought wry smiles today from the 27-year-old swimmer who was once a national heroine.

She hasn't been swimming in almost a year, because she fell shortly before last Christmas and fractured a pelvis bone. She is still in a cast, Bridges, Joe Horacek and J. Callaway, all of Atlanta.

But when all the firing was over not one of the competitors had succeeded in the prime objective, sinking a tee shot.

The winner of the tourney was Ed Searle, of the Bronx, who put one of the five shots each contestant was allowed 17 inches from the cup.

Chicago Splits Double Bill With Braves and Fails To Gain

LARGE CROWD SEES CUBS WIN IN FIRST GAME

Guy Bush Takes Opener But Fails in Second Start.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The second-place Chicago Cubs failed to gain on the league-leading New York Giants today as they split a double-header with the Boston Braves, played before a crowd of 25,000. The Cubs won the first game, 3 to 2, in 10 innings but dropped a 6-to-1 decision in the nightcap to remain four games back of the champions, who were rained out at Pittsburgh.

The Cubs apparently were headed for defeat in the first game when they went into the last half of the ninth on the score of 2 to 1. Guy Bush, who had pitched a 2-to-1 score, was hit by a double, and a timely single, after two were out, to tie the count, however, and in the tenth, Bill Herman crashed through with a double, sending Stanley Hack home with the winning tally. Guy Bush, hurled the last two innings, received credit for his fourteenth victory of the season.

Bush was not so fortunate in the second game, however, succeeding Bill Lee with the bases loaded, one out in the fifth inning. Bush followed with a walk and gave three singles. Four runs crossed the plate and that was enough with Flint Rhem keeping the Cubs' hopes scattered. Randy Moore hit a home run in the eighth off Charley Root, the fourth Chicago pitcher, for the final Boston run.

THE SPOTLIGHT

By Kenneth Rice

BABE RUTH'S FUTURE

What will happen to Babe Ruth when he retires next month as a regular? The August air has been full of rumors, including the tip that Babe might turn to professional golf for a living.

The Babe himself isn't quite sure, but he expects to make his living out of baseball.

"I am going to a baseball tour of Japan this fall," he said in the Yankee dugout, "and this will last two months or longer. If there happens to be an opening, I'd like to manage a major league club."

"I am going to keep on playing golf, but I don't expect to make any living out of it. That slice I had the last time out might turn and bite me again."

"Baseball happens to be my main game. It has given me a great break in the past and I'm not worried about the future."

Ruth's baseball tour of Japan should be one of the greatest of all sports' expeditionary forces. Jimmy Fox also is going, and Lou Gehrig hopes to be on hand. Few know that Japan has at least two ball parks with more seating capacity than any baseball plant in the U. S. of A., outside of the Yankee stadium.

These two Japanese parks can take care of more than 60,000 spectators each, and they will be packed when the Babe reports for action with an all-star cast.

Japan is one of baseball's keenest sectors. The Japanese know all about the Babe. Fox, Gehrig and other stars, and millions will be waiting to see and hear the cannoning of these famous sluggers. Anyway, Ruth is all steamed up over the oriental jaunt.

Bush was not so fortunate in the second game, however, succeeding Bill Lee with the bases loaded, one out in the fifth inning. Bush followed with a walk and gave three singles. Four runs crossed the plate and that was enough with Flint Rhem keeping the Cubs' hopes scattered. Randy Moore hit a home run in the eighth off Charley Root, the fourth Chicago pitcher, for the final Boston run.

BRYAN GRANT MEETS PARKER IN FINAL ROUND

Allison and Bell Complete Semi-Finals of Casino Tennis Tourney.

By Bill Kink.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Through no fault of the officials who made the draw, the Newport casino tennis tournament today narrowed down to the outstanding pairs of feudists of the current eastern grass campaign.

After four days of listless competition this classic was reduced to a semi-final round that pitted Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, last year's runner-up, against Berkeley Bell, of New York; and Frankie Parker, of Spring Lake, N. J., against the new national clay court champion, Bryan Grant, of Atlanta.

BESTED BELL.
A week ago at Longwood, Allison, playing one of the finest matches of his long career, bested Bell, who has since the draw, the Newport tennis tournament today narrowed down to the outstanding pairs of feudists of the current eastern grass campaign.

When Francis X. Shields, of New York, defeated yesterday to J. Gilbert Hall, of New York, the last of the unseeded players, he tossed the torch to his havis cup teammate, Sidney Wood, of New York.

The highly polished Wood, however, was unequal to the test, for when he encountered the vastly improved Bell, the internationalist was eliminated from the tourney to the decisive tune of 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Allison again defeated the second round winner, ranked third, behind Shields and Wood; Bell was seeded fifth, Parker sixth and Grant seventh.

ABOUT THE TIGERS.
I asked Mickey Cochrane what he considered the leading feature in regard to his astonishing Tiger.

"You've heard a lot about college spirit—but this Detroit ball club has as much spirit as any college football team I ever saw. It has spirit and speed, and that makes a hard combination to stop. It also has the punch. If some rival team piles up a lead of four or five runs, we never know when a pitcher is going to let those runs back—and maybe a few more."

There is hardly a spot in our lineup where a rival pitcher can find a hole. He must keep bearing down every minute of the game—and that isn't an easy thing to do. We spotted a pitcher as Lefty Gomez, who is in his last year at the college, and still won out. The average ball club would be discouraged with a Gomez holding that big mound. Our club of ours doesn't get discouraged. We play it out—the way through.

"The same thing goes for our pitchers. Even when we're behind, they keep on pitching. They know they will get them runs enough to win out. After all, it goes back more to spirit—team spirit—than anything else. It isn't an easy job to keep hustling from April to October through 154 ball games. There is always a strong temptation after June or early July to coast here and there—to loaf a little. No other competitive sport calls for such a grind over so long a period of time—day after day for nearly six months. But we haven't done any loafing or coasting. The entire bunch has kept hustling since the first game of the season, and it will be out there hustling just the same until the race is over."

Mickey Cochrane's own spirit and keenness have been big factors in holding up this Tiger spirit.

He started the fire, and he has kept it burning in the baseball breast. Mickey is a great mixture of both head and heart, extremely popular all around the circuit.

He looks a trifle thin and drawn, but there has been no mental let-down—no sign of going stale. His remarkable ability at the job of handling pitchers has been another reason for Detroit's success.

Scores Hole-in-One But Loses His Match
ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—E. M. O'Herron, of Charlotte, scored a hole-in-one in the Billmore Forest Invitational golf tournament—but just the same he lost to Lyman Beecher, of Clearwater, Florida.

The hole-in-one came on the third hole, a 140-yard shot, which he could not sleep for the clamor of toads in the frog-hole pool. He told you, if I thought you would believe it, that I removed 68 of these animals from my neighbor's pool one night last spring, and that on the following night the chorus was just as loud. There is a warning note to this tale that might conceivably get under one's skin, so to speak, and while I have never been thus annoyed by the toads, I can see how it is possible.

Toads are about the last of the early amphibians to appear. They begin to make their appearance about the last of April on warm nights, and then they dominate the vocalization of the frog tribe. The males at this season, have black throats, which easily distinguish them from the female, whose throats are white. The eggs of the toad are deposited like

CAMPBELL PLANS NEW ATTEMPT AT SPEED MARK

Englishman Would Seek 300-Mile Record Here Next Winter.

By Bill Kink.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed ace, plans to come to Daytona Beach the second or third week in January to attempt to break the 300-mile record set by a cable announcement that he would seek a 300-mile speed record here next winter.

Major Armstrong, who just returned from a trip to the north, said the city would dispense with the racing commission and that he personally would handle details of the 1935 speed trials.

Campbell said he might have to stand by for a month or even longer.

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (P)—Holding in a narrow range, stocks edged moderately higher in dull trading today.

Speculative markets were overshadowed by broad strength in bonds. While the recovery in United States government obligations tapered off, other sections of the investment market scanned the horizon for signs of autumn business recovery. Strength in bonds was accepted as an indicator of improvement in confidence.

Turnover in stocks increased to 610,120 shares compared with 574,750 yesterday. Early strength lacked follow-through and the market reverted to a quiet drift before the close. The standard statistics averaged a point to 72.3, with industrial shares hovering around the tops of the recent narrow trading range.

Western Union and Radio preferred shares outstanding among communication shares and closed more than 2 points higher. American Telephone finished 1-2 point higher. Postal Telegraph preferred, spurred for a net gain of 1-1/2 points.

Among individual strong spots, American Agricultural, Chrysler, American Safety Razor, Chrysler, Hercules Powder, Liggett and Myers and New York Air Brake rose 1 to 4 points.

Aside from livestock, most commodities moved narrowly. Cotton ended 20 to 25 cents a bale lower.

The weekly brokers' loan report disclosed a further decline of $6,000,000 to $821,000,000, the smallest drop in several weeks.

Brokers' Views

FENNER & BEANE—The persistence of transactions in higher levels of trading range prevailing throughout this month suggests the supply level that is just over the market is being gradually reduced.

COURTS & CO.—The market seems to be advancing. The further slow advance.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The market seems to be settling to the point where it ought to be helped by September business improvement if there is going to be any to speak of.

FENNER & BEANE—Sentiment seems to have been affected by statement given out at Washington in the fourth week of the month. We doubt, however, if it will go far.

COURTS & CO.—We continue to favor buying cotton on setbacks.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & HUBBARD—The market has been rather in line with developments of a trading interest, until a better price has been obtained on the end-August crop indication, or the movement of new cotton more widely.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We think small market activity will be short-lived and favor grain purchases, preferably of wheat.

CURB STOCKS

IN A NUTS

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (P)—The curb market remained in the doldrums today. Minor improvement was the rule. Only a few scattered specialties showed variations of more than a point at the close.

The list tilted slightly upward during the forenoon. The remainder of the session was marked by narrow backing and filling movements.

Pepperell Manufacturing rose 5-1/4 points in a few odd lot transfers.

Chiles Co. preferred firm yesterday advanced 3-1/2. Aluminum Company of America rose 2.

Both Swift & Co. and Swift International moved up fractionally in active dealing. Other shares closed slightly higher include American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share, Hiram Walker, Distillers Corporation, Newmont, Wright Hargrave, International Petroleum, Humble Oil and Sherwin-Williams.

Greyhound Corporation ended off a shade.

Transfers approximated 114,000 shares compared with 101,000 on Wednesday.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (UP)—Wall Street was troubled by a number of items tonight.

But aside from the dearth of customers—some brokerage houses reporting the smallest attendance of 3000—there were several items which were troubling traders included:

Reports from Washington that regulations which the government is going to watch grain trading closely to prevent any huge speculation.

Continued indications from Washington that the government is going to watch grain trading closely to prevent any huge speculation.

Announcement of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that the government is not giving serious consideration to Senator Bankhead's proposal to peg cotton at 13 cents a pound, a blow which sucked considerable profit out of the market today after an early rise.

STRIKE SITUATION.

Outbreak of strike difficulties in the textile industry, with the 6000 textile workers walking out and tax-and-bus difficulties in several centers including New York and Chicago.

The combined to lessen the chances of any speculative enthusiasm in the stock market, although they did not build up any particular amount of pessimism, the chief bearish points being the government's action in the cotton market.

The new traders, however, were not greatly worried over these chart theories and continued to make the small commitments that resulted in a close which was slightly higher but considerably under the tops for the day.

Commodity trading also lost zest.

FAVORABLE FACTOR.

Unchanged price announcement for scrap at Pittsburgh, indicating a rather steady market with some underlying support.

The customary seasonal releases starting for the move toward—with all major companies announcing new pictures with their major stars—with attendance expected to pick-up and box office receipts increase at least to seasonal level.

The continued strength in the Chicago, and most other centers, hog markets. A high price of $5.50 per hundredweight was reached in this market a jump of $1.10 per hundred since last Saturday and is a figure only 35 cents under the high price established in September, 1931.

Some dealers are predicting a one-way runaway market as offerings reportedly are scarce and demand fairly good.

The hog rise emphasizes the continued rise in prices for foodstuffs, which in turn is benefiting packers and major food companies which have large inventories. All statistical agencies are pointing to rises in food prices, which in some cases are running to as much as 17 per cent in the last month.

Sugar and Coffee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (P)—Raw sugar was easier today, a sale confirmed of 35,000 bags of Cuban for first half September.

There was little change in futures, but the tone was steady as there was no selling pressure. The market closed unchanged to 2 points higher. Sales were 9,500 tons.

NEW YORK COTTON RANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Cotton futures market today turned heavy after moderate early gains, closing slightly lower.

December sold up to 13.70 on some early demand, then fell to 13.54 and closed at 13.55, with the general price feeling finishing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 7 points.

Opening prices were 7 to 8 points higher and active in the morning, but gains of about 9 to 10 points during the early trading on buying encouraged by the showing of Liverpool, overnight reports of a good business in the cotton cloth market and the early steadiness of grain.

Offerings increased on the advance, and prices sagged later under competitive bid offerings.

The disposition to take profits on long cotton was increased by the reaction in grain. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lower end of the range.

Reports from Washington indicating that the department of agriculture had given no consideration to suggestions of a temporary extension in processing of cotton on cotton or the pegging of prices, confused effort and apparently caused some reselling by buyers.

BY VICTOR KUBANK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Continued buying of lower-priced corporate issues carried many railroad and utility loans 1 to 2 points higher in today's bond market. There was a steady tone in prime investment and United States governments.

Transfers approximated $9,371,000, par value, compared with $12,300,000 Wednesday and the Standard Statistics Company average of 60 domestic corporate loans advanced three-tenths of a point to 82.5. The turnover in government bonds amounted to only $2,770,000, compared with $6,620,000 the day before.

Although top prices of the day were shaded slightly in the final hour, trading advances of 1 to 2 points were well scattered throughout the lower-priced group, including "Nickle Plate" bonds, which closed 2 points higher at 60. Other substantial gains included some obligations of American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph, Lehigh Valley Coal, New Haven North American Edison, Texas & Pacific, Southern Railway and Western Maryland.

Prime investment issues participated in the uptick to a greater extent than was the case in the past two sessions, with gains of as much as a point recorded by Public Service Electric & Gas at 102.34 and Liggett & Myers at 114.12.

Reflecting the smallest turnover in nearly a week, the government list moved within a comparatively narrow range, but with one or two exceptions closed 1-3/4 to 6-3/4 points higher.

Further improvement in Argentine issues featured the foreign section, which was generally quiet.

"SQUATTERS" BRAVE GUNS AND BLAZE FOR TAINTED FOOD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16. (AP)—Hunger-crazed "squatters" on a city dump braved blazing gasoline and a deputy United States marshal's drawn pistol to fish cans of poisoned prunes from a flaming pyre.

The squatters, swarmed by the hundreds from their ramshackle shacks of rubble boards and tin yesterday and threatened to mob Deputy Marshal Charles Schoch to reach a truck loaded with 1,000 gallons of the canned fruit.

"Who cares? It's something to eat," one man shouted in reply to Schoch's warning that the food was tainted.

The deputy marshal mounted the roof of the truck, and drew his pistol. The mob retreated, but only until the truck was emptied.

Ignoring the pistol and the blazing gasoline poured over the pile of cans, they tried to fish the fruit from the flames with long poles.

Some succeeded, and made off gleefully with the prunes, seized by inspectors of the United States pure food, drugs and insecticides bureau at a northeast Philadelphia preserving plant and condemned as unfit to eat.

A violent gastric disorder was predicted for those who ate their tainted meal.

Lindbergh Son Reaches Second Anniversary

NORTH HAVEN, Maine, Aug. 16. (AP)—Little Jon Morrow Lindbergh passed his second birthday today in the secluded and guarded surroundings of the Morrow summer estate but neither Betty Gore, his nurse, nor his parents were there.

The usual uncommunicative attitude prevailed at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, but sources close to the family disclosed that Miss Gow recently returned to her native Scotland on a vacation.

Shirley Grant, daughter of Hubert O. Grant, caretaker of the estate, has assumed the duties of Jon's nurse. Although no details of Jon's birthday party were made known it was believed he passed the day as most youngsters of two years, oblivious to the passing of time.

Two informal meetings marked the initial activities of the delegates, the first being a vesper service led by Miss Webb Brown, of Charlottesville, president of the Virginia federation; Mrs. Zadora Ramsey Richardson, of Richmond, Va., national field representative.

This evening the Tennessee federation was hostess at a picnic supper served at Weatherford Springs, Miss Virginia Harmon, of Nashville, was chairman of the group in charge.
